School board OKs budget draft

System at 'crucial point'

By Neil Fater

The Andover school system is at a crossroads with its budget for the next school year. That was the message that Mark McQuillan, superintendent of schools, gave to the School Committee Tuesday night, as the committee unanimously approved his final budget draft.

"I think we produced a very, very basic budget," said Dr. McQuillan. "I think we have some serious problems to address with the town as a whole."

"There are a lot of important things that aren't happening, such as professional development," said Mary Lyman, committee member. "The teachers do a lot of things through professional development dollars. It's hard to calculate all the effects."

Bancroft Overcrowding Task Force: Relief needed

By Neil Fater

Overcrowding at Bancroft School, and throughout the system, has been a steadily increasing problem for a few years now. Open enrollment, the concept that some are toting as a possible solution, is nothing new either.

But for the second straight meeting, a group brought together by the Bancroft Overcrowding Task Force asked the School Committee to consider open enrollment as a possible new solution to the problem.

"There is a lot of noise in my loft," third-grader Molly Childs said at Tuesday's meeting.

"On behalf of the task force we'd like you to please consider discussing" open enrollment, said Debra Silberstein, co-chairwoman of the overcrowding task force. "We can't even have one more year of what we had this year."

"It seems to me that my function in the last six months is to keep children quiet," said Lilith Calkins, a parent who volunteers 45 minutes once a week. She said it is unfortunate that the school recruits high-quality teachers who inspire students, but once they become excited about a topic, they have to be quieted down.

"I watch the light go right out of their eyes and it scares me," she said.

She attributed some of the disillusionment that one might find at the High School to such events. "I think it starts way back at the elementary school."

Open enrollment is already used at Shawsheen School, which is K-2 integrated primary.

Smoking bylaw is ready for Town Meeting

By Don Staruk

After a second public hearing on the proposed smoking bylaw Monday night, members of the Board of Health backed down on two previously included restrictions, one that would ban smoking in municipal vehicles and another that would ban distribution of reduced-price or free-sample coupons for tobacco products.

The final version of a proposed bylaw that would ban smoking in restaurants and all municipal buildings in Andover is expected to be in the town manager's office by tomorrow, Friday, for inclusion on the April 11 Town Meeting warrant. Selectmen are scheduled to sign the warrant at their next meeting, on Monday, Feb. 28.

School Committee candidates: Can you devote the necessary time if you win?

By Neil Fater

It's 11:30 Tuesday night, and the School Committee has just adjourned. Tired School Committee members wander to their cars, aware that the week is far from over. Each is slated to attend various meetings with school subcommittees before the weekend, and a Saturday morning work session is planned.

"I think a lot of people underestimate the time commitment that's required," said Susan Jenkins, a School Committee member up for re-election. "You can have two or three meetings a week. When I was chairwoman of the School Committee last year I was out four nights a week. The time commitment is something that's very, very important and it cannot be underestimated."

Although there are weeks when a committee member might put in only a handful of hours, other weeks "can be extremely intense so that you're out to a meeting every night and on the phone for several hours a day," said Susan Dalton, the current chairwoman who is also up for re-election.

Because the committee will have to deal with the Education Reform legislation, negotiations with staff, overcrowding, and a number of other issues in the next year, the amount of time needed will remain significant. Consequently, awareness of the amount of time needed and availability for this time will be critical for potential candidates.

David Birnbach, Lloyd Willey and Bill Josephson are the candidates vying for the seats of incumbents Ms. Jenkins and Ms. Dalton.

Mr. Birnbach, having served on the committee from 1985 to 1988 before leaving to attend graduate school at MIT, is well aware of the time commitment and said he takes it seriously. He said he and his wife have again settled down in Andover.

"I think I missed one meeting out of three years when I was on a business trip," he said. "I went to all the PTO meetings even though I was the Sanborn representative."

"The reason I'm running is because I really do want to commit to the process. I do have the time and will make the time to fully devote to the educational issues," said Mr. Birnbach. "I wouldn't get involved if I didn't have the time and energy to devote to the Andover school system."

Mr. Birnbach works full-time at a Cambridge software company.

Fellow candidate Bill Josephson is self employed, owning his own business, and puts in a normal work week.

Because he is involved in executive recruitment, Mr. Josephson often must put in a few hours of calls at night to reach potential recruits. However, he said this would not interfere with any School Committee involvement.

"What it means is I would have to use my time wisely," he said. "It would just mean that I would need to be creative and use my time effectively."

Mr. Josephson is currently co-chairman of the Bancroft Overcrowding Task Force but said he would resign from that position if it were necessary.

"The only other thing I'm involved in is the Bancroft School Council. I have no other outside activities other than work, my family, night calls and some basketball," he said.

Lloyd Willey, current chairman of the ad hoc finance committee, said that if he is elected he would have to leave the finance post.

He said in addition to his time with the ad hoc finance committee he had attended work sessions on the budget and gone to about three-quarters of the School Committee meetings during the past two years.

Mr. Willey is president of a plastics technology company, and therefore has some flexibility in when he must be at the office.

"I work right here in Andover. That makes it convenient to my work for being available for meetings," he said. "I don't travel a great deal, although like any job, there is some travel."

Mr. Willey said when he does need to travel it is usually only for two or three days at a time, rather than a full week or more.

He is a soccer coach for one of the town's girls soccer teams.

Ms. Dalton works in Andover and Ms. Jenkins is at home with her children, who are students in the system.

Ms. Jenkins said she has missed only three committee and subcommittee meetings in her three years in office.

News In Brief

Sea Train Restaurant won't re-open in depot

By Don Staruk

The owner of the Sea Train Restaurant at 100 School St., which was heavily damaged in a suspicious fire Thursday, Feb. 3, will not re-open in its old location, according to the restaurant's owner, John Marocco.

"We'd like to relocate uptown but at this time we're not sure what we'll do," Mr. Marocco said Tuesday.

He has received a lot of feedback from the community that people would like him to re-open, even if it's in another location, Mr. Marocco said. But the restaurant was not insured. Mr. Marocco let the insurance lapse more than a year ago in an effort to cut costs when he was struggling to stay in business, he said.

"We had a marvelous business there. Then the coffee house moved in and, because of the crowd, it hurt us," Mr. Marocco said.

Older patrons were intimidated by the crowds of young kids hanging around the R&R Coffee Shoppe, Mr. Marocco said. The R&R, a coffee shop where scores of the town's teens like to hang out, is located next to the restaurant in the same building.

Mr. Marocco and his wife, Mary Alice, owned and operated the restaurant for more than 15 years in the former railroad depot. Mr. Marocco was born and brought up in Andover. He and his wife now live in North Andover. The building is owned by Melvin Zaft, also of North Andover, who was incorrectly identified as the owner of the restaurant in a story about the fire in last week's Townsmen.

The fire was a result of arson, according to fire officials and Mr. Marocco. Fires were burning in several locations when firefighters arrived, and Mr. Marocco said fire investigators told him gasoline was used to ignite the building. Deputy Fire Chief James Lynch said the building did not suffer structural damage, but Mr. Marocco said he lost everything.

"We lost everything in there. The cash register melted. Everything was just gone," Mr. Marocco said.

The electricity and water was shut off, so the entire building is closed.

The R&R Coffee Shoppe also remains closed. The coffee shop suffered only minor smoke damage, according to Dep. Lynch. Kaija Gilmore, Andover's building inspector, said last week the Sea Train portion of the restaurant will require "massive restoration."

Deputy Robert Boush is investigating the fire along with detectives from the police department.

Suicide task force named

The following people have been named to the town's Suicide Task Force: Mark K. McQuillan, superintendent of schools and co-chairman of the task force; Selectman Larry Larsen, co-chair of the task force; School Committee member Susan Jenkins; AHS Principal Tim Thomas; Ruby Easton, head of guidance at AHS; Mike Marcoux, AHS guidance counselor; Brenda O'Brien, director of the schools' health programs; Tom Meyers, head of the teachers' union; parent Ronald Branning; parent Marlies Zammuto; parent Mary Mueller; police Detective Joseph Hastings; Gail Nichols, a director of Samaritans of the Merrimack Valley; the Rev. James Diamond, of Christ Church; Maximillian Soong, Karly Robbins and Robert Lord, all AHS students; and William Fahey, town youth coordinator. The group was scheduled to meet Wednesday, Feb. 16.

Rep. Coon plans local hours

Rep. Gary Coon, R-Andover, will hold local office hours Tuesday, Feb. 22, at the Northern Essex Community College Lawrence campus from 6 to 7 p.m., and Memorial Hall Library from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Clerk: Return census forms

The annual town census for 1994 was mailed to residents last month.

Approximately 8,000 census forms have been returned to the clerk's office out of 10,900 forms sent. If you have not already returned your census, the town clerk's office urges you to do so.

An accurate count of all residents is very important for many reasons; for example, the current count is the basis for allocation of state and federal funds.

The only legal way the town clerk can verify residency is through the town census. This is important for school enrollment, the voting list and the maintenance of updated statistics.

The 1994 census form will indicate if a resident is a registered voter in the town and the party designation. Those who are not registered voters are required by state law to register at the town clerk's office, which is open Monday-Friday, 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

Special registration hours for the annual Town Meeting and Town Election this year are Tuesday, March 1, 6-8 p.m.; Saturday, March 5, 9 a.m.-5 p.m.; and Tuesday, March 8, (last day to register), 8:30 a.m.-10 p.m.

The annual Town Election will be held Monday, March 28, and the annual Town Meeting is scheduled for April 11, 12 and 13.

Rep. Coon files bill on drug use

Rep. Gary M. Coon, R-Andover, announced that he has filed House Bill 1985, "An Act Relative to Use of a Minor in Drug Operations," aimed at stopping gang members and drug dealers from recruiting children into the world of crime and drugs. The bill would make it unlawful for an individual 18 years of age or older to knowingly or intentionally solicit, induce, encourage, intimidate, employ, hire or use an individual under 14 to unlawfully transport, carry, sell, give away, prepare for sale or peddle any controlled substance.

Presently there is no statute that deals directly with this issue. Drug dealers use children in drug operations to avoid being directly charged with any serious drug-related criminal activity. Forty-five states have enacted legislation designed to specifically address the problems of children being involved in the drug trade.

Violation of this act would be punishable by a fine of up to $300,000 and receive a jail sentence of up to 20 years with a mandatory minimum sentence of 10 years. Any repeat offender would be fined up to $500,000 and receive a sentence of up to life in prison with a mandatory minimum sentence of 20 years.

How to be a lounge singer

By Don Staruk

Ned Claflin, of 6 Stevens Circle, who a few years ago wrote songs that were sung by Madonna in the Warren Beatty film, "Dick Tracy," is back in the limelight, or maybe the dim lounge light, with a book he has co-written, You Oughta Be Me, on "how to be a lounge singer and live like one."

The book, co-written with Cort Casady, is about "the fabulous Bud E. Luv," a character created by Robert Vickers, a longtime friend of Mr. Claflin's. "He's a guy I've known forever," Mr. Claflin said in an interview with the Townsmen last week.

Mr. Vickers, 41, is originally from Marblehead. A musician, he moved to California in the 1960s, settling in San Francisco where, as time passed, he was "trapped into being a lounge singer," according to Mr. Claflin, and developed the character of Bud E. Luv.

"The premise of which is he's a complete showbiz legend and he wrote and created everything," Mr. Claflin said.

Bud E. Luv takes credit for anything anybody does or has done in show business. He was discovered by Milton Berle, has written songs for Elvis, Frank Sinatra and Michael Jackson, and created a few music trends along the way, such as rock'n roll, folk music, disco and bossa nova.

The book is a how-to manual on becoming a successful lounge singer by Bud E. Luv as told to Mr. Casady and Mr. Claflin. The Library of Congress lists the book under "Popular music-vocational guidance," but Mr. Claflin said it's "a humor book, clearly." The introduction opens with, "Of Course, you want to be me. Who wouldn't?"

Chapter headings include "Talent with a capital T," "A little thing called style," "Broads, chicks and dolls, and "Becoming a legend." Chapters also cover dressing, "Jewelry: A few pointers my friend," what to sing, and tax write-offs.

Bud E. Luv has also been on TV.

"He did Inside Edition. He got (NBC's Today show host) Katie Couric to sing the theme from Love Boat on national television," Mr. Claflin said.

Mr. Claflin has written songs for Mr. Luv's act and ridden around with Mr. Luv on the hills outside San Francisco in the singer's "mint, white '63 Corvette convertible."

"This was before the earthquakes," Mr. Claflin said.

The idea for the book came from one of the performer's acts. He was in New York and one of his props was a book, which he told the audience was a how-to manual for lounge singers. After the act, a woman came up and asked if the book was real. When he admitted it was not, she said she worked for a publisher. She asked him to write one.

Mr. Luv called Mr. Casady, a friend and his former manager and who had also been a writer for The Smothers Brothers television show in the '60s.

"The only book Cort ever wrote was a real guide for singing that he ghost wrote for John Davidson," Mr. Claflin said. "And I had been writing songs for Bud E. He told me for years, 'If I ever get writing work, you're going to do it.'"

Sellout

The book has been in the stores since November and has already sold out at Andover Bookstore, according to Mr. Claflin, "all three copies."

"Now that we've made our Christmas returns, we're into the Presidents' Day sales, so make sure you pick it up," Mr. Claflin said.

Mr. Claflin has been a writer and performer for years, but said, "I try to work as little as possible."

He's had several a cappella bands.

"I'm a singer too, but don't get me wrong, I couldn't get in the same room with Bud E," he said.

One of his claims to fame is that he and the other Boston-based songwriters who worked on the songs for Dick Tracy are "the only people who've ever written a song for Madonna without dirty lyrics," he said. The song is "Now I'm Following You."

Mr. Claflin grew up in Belmont. He and his wife, Sarah Hawn, have lived in Andover for several years and have a daughter, Caroline, who is a student at Bancroft School.

Although there may not be many budding lounge singers in Andover, the book has something for everyone, Mr. Claflin said.

"At least you can benefit from Bud E.'s advice about hair," he said, pointing to a quote about "The Scramble."

"The Scrambler begins by growing 10 inches of hair right next to his ear — on one side only! He meticulously parts it just above the ear, then combs it straight across to the other ear. Like a New York-Tokyo flight crossing the North Pole. Fine, if you want your head to look like an airplane route map. Are you listening, Don Rickles? I kid Don. He's nuts about me."

Those who want more than the book has to offer can see Bud E. Luv perform April 1 and 2 at the Regatta Bar at the Charles Hotel in Cambridge. Reservations are required.

"The bus will be leaving from the Townsmen," Mr. Claflin joked.

Local Democrats elect delegates

By Don Staruk

Andover Democrats caucused at Andover High School last Saturday and elected 16 delegates to the party's state convention at the Worcester Centrum on Saturday, June 4.

But interest in the elections and the convention isn't what it was four years ago, according to Bob LaRochelle, aide to Congressman Marty Meehan, D-Lowell, and a member of the state Democratic Committee. Mr. LaRochelle said only about 30 Democrats attended last weekend's caucus compared to the more than 100 who attended four years ago.

Andover's Democratic Town Committee sends 16 delegates, eight women and eight men, to the convention. In addition, a representative of the town committee and state committee members attend the convention. M.J. Powell of Cheever Circle and Mr. LaRochelle will go as representatives of the state committee, and Karen Courtney, chairwoman of the town committee, will attend.

Mr. LaRochelle said the importance of the convention has waned in many people's eyes since John Silber won the party's nomination four years ago after receiving barely 15 percent support from convention delegates. Traditionally, 15 percent of delegate support was required to be nominated.

As for the candidates, Sen. John D. O'Brien Jr., D-Andover, is unopposed for his party's nomination for a second term.

Nobody has taken out papers to run against Rep. Gary Coon, R-Andover, but Ellen Murphy, who ran against Rep. Coon two years ago, is talking about it, Mr. LaRochelle said. When redistricting was done last year, Andover's Precinct 5 was lost from, and parts of Lawrence were added to, the 17th Essex District that includes the rest of Andover. Without Precinct 5 and with the new Lawrence wards, Ellen Murphy would have won, Mr. LaRochelle pointed out.

There are at least three Democratic candidates for governor already announced and possibly two more, including former Boston Mayor Ray Flynn, considering a run.

Mr. LaRochelle thinks Mr. Flynn would have a difficult time running in the Merrimack Valley because he has not been a big supporter of business and because of the former mayor's pro-life stance on abortion.

"I think (Gov.) Weld looks, quite frankly, very tough to beat," Mr. LaRochelle said.

Rep. Meehan raised $420,000 in contributions last year, and is not neglecting his campaign, said Mr. LaRochelle.

School Committee approves final budget draft

The budget makes no cuts in teaching and administrative personnel, and a new foreign language program will be enacted.

But the budget does not include any contingency plan for wage settlements. That means that any change in wages can only be funded by further cuts to services or supplies.

Formal art instruction for kindergartners will be eliminated.

System-wide administrators will be used to teach classes and provide other assistance at selected schools, and clerical and secretarial staff will be reassigned to school buildings. Custodial support for preventive maintenance will be affected.

Instructional assistants will be directed into purely classroom activities and parent volunteers will be asked to assist such activities as playground monitoring.

"The instructional assistants are just great. We have people with dual masters who are making $12,000 a year," said Ms. Lyman. "We're re-organizing their time."

Though Dr. McQuillan recommended reducing the amount that substitute teachers are paid per day, Ms. Lyman strongly opposed the idea. She will work with Gail Zeman, business manager of the schools, to find a way around the substitute-pay reduction.

Ms. Lyman suggests using parent volunteers instead of paying for substitute secretaries.

"We've done that in the past," she said. "It's not that easy because when someone's sick you don't get a lot of notice. But nothing's easy."

The budget plan does add the approximate equivalent of 8.7 full-time teachers to the system. Two months ago the school board was planning to add 10 teachers but had to make additional cuts to get down to the present $24,422,042 budget.

Since 1991, Andover's student population has increased 5 percent at the high-school level, 5 percent at the middle-school level and 10 percent at the elementary level. Teaching staff has gone down by 8.5 percent at Andover High School, down by 8.4 percent at the middle-school levels, and up by 4.8 percent at the elementary level.

No student activity or bus fees will be used as a revenue source.

Though there has been an increase for special needs operation, no money has been designated to handle any revenues that may be added due to expulsions. Six special-needs students have been expelled to date this year.

"Yet of all the implications of this budget, certainly the most troubling is what this budget portends for the future," Dr. McQuillan wrote in his report to the committee. "For the past two years, like every school system in the commonwealth, Andover has hoped that the Education Reform Act would enhance and stabilize public school spending for several years to come. For this community, it has not."

Dr. McQuillan and members of the School Committee have said that a reorganization of town services and an elimination of the current bucket model may be necessary to allow the schools to fund projects they have deemed necessary. The school department is also looking for new ways to raise revenue for its projects.

Committee members are considering ways to place education programs offered through the Department of Community Services under their control, rather than under the town government's control, so that they can raise more money. Members are looking to expand after-school enrichment programs as well as to create adult education classes, all of which would charge a fee.

School board OKs final budget draft

There is currently an article on the warrant that asks the town to allow a check-off box to be placed on tax bills, which would allow a taxpayer to voluntarily donate one dollar or more to a town education fund to be established.

Sports clinics could also be offered by the school coaches to raise funds.

Chairwoman Susan Dalton has been a strong supporter of working to get the Collins Center up and operating as a stronger revenue source. She has been adamant about an increase in parking around the Collins Center being included in the school building program for the High School.

Vision and mission statement

In other news of the School Committee, Dr. McQuillan submitted his vision and mission statements of goals for the schools to the committee. A key element of the document is its emphasis on the controversial issue of outcome-based education. Dr. McQuillan said the goals for Andover do not abandon traditional methods of teaching and testing but instead augment them.

The School Committee did not support the document but voted to accept it for the purpose of attaining feedback from residents. Officials expect a forum on the subject some time after Town Meeting.

School Building Committee

Jim Marsh, chairman of the School Building Committee, reported that the state informally recommended cutting approximately 8,000 square feet off of the planned High School project. The High School project is approximately 299,000 square feet and state officials have indicated they will pay 60 percent of 291,350 square feet. Any amount over the 291,350 square feet may not be reimbursed by the state.

"That's conditional upon future meetings," said Mr. Marsh.

Your Dental HEALTH

by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D.

PENETRATING INSIGHT

In order to better understand gum disease, it may help to take a look below the surface of the gums (gingiva). Beneath this pink tissue is the periodontal ligament which attaches each tooth to the alveolar bone. When a buildup of plaque (sticky, bacterial film) collects in the groove where the gums meet the teeth, an inflammation of the gums (gingivitis) occurs as the mildest form of gum disease. If plaque is allowed to harden into tartar and create deepening pockets around the teeth, inflammation is likely to reach into the periodontal ligament and alveolar bone. At this point, the tooth's attachment to the bone may be threatened. This is how gum disease may lead to tooth loss.

In this column, we look forward to bringing you information that is interesting and helpful in maintaining your complete oral health. To maintain good oral hygiene, it is essential to take the necessary steps to prevent both periodontal (gum) disease and tooth decay. Together, as a team, we can do it. Start with celebrating "National Children's Dental Health Month" (February), which stresses the importance of regular dental care, for all ages. Call 475-2431, 296 Lowell Street, Rt 133, with easy access off Rt 93. Hrs: Mon & Thurs 10-8; Tues & Fri 8-6; and by appointment.

P.S. According to conservative estimates by the National Institute of Dental Research, 44 percent of employed U.S. adults have some gingivitis, while 14 percent have periodontitis.

United Way allocations rose slightly this year

Following a successful fund-raising campaign, the United Way of Merrimack Valley has announced that overall allocations to member agencies rose slightly this year.

The board of directors for the local United Way voted to allocate $3,852,172 to the member agencies.

Joseph F. Casey, Fund Distribution Committee chairman and chief financial officer for Andover Bank, said the allocation process was like night and day compared to last year. Following the 1992-'93 campaign, the local United Way announced a 2.5 percent decrease in agency funding. That year, the annual campaign came in at $5.2 million, down $400,000 from the previous year. The 1993-'94 campaign increased in net by more than $34,000.

The Fund Distribution Committee is comprised of volunteers from throughout the Merrimack Valley. During the fund distribution process, each member agency presents its programming needs to a fund distribution panel. Panel members make specific agency allocation recommendations which are passed on to the executive committee of the board and eventually in summary to the United Way Board of Directors for vote.

"It was nice to be able to tell the volunteers that an across-the-board cut was not going to happen," Mr. Casey said. "In the final stages of the fund distribution process, we were able to honor recommendations by our volunteers."

He was quick to point out that the slight increase in allocable dollars doesn't mean every agency received an increase.

"Each agency is looked at on a case by case basis," Mr. Casey said. "A number of different factors are taken into consideration before deciding on that agency's allocation, such as that organization's ability to develop resources outside of the United Way allotment."

Mr. Casey had high praise for his volunteers and the member agencies. He said many of the member agencies came into the process with realistic requests and expectations.

"A lot of the agencies had already instituted cost saving measures," he said. "That sent a message to the volunteers that many of the agencies are trying to be proactive and creative in these challenging economic times."

"Many thanks also to the campaign volunteers who worked just as hard to bring in more money."

Agencies will be notified this week by letter of their allocation.

The United Way of Merrimack Valley funds 59 health and human service agencies throughout 34 communities in northeastern Massachusetts and southern New Hampshire. Last year, nearly 300,000 people were helped through member agencies.

PAYING HIGHER TAXES IN INSTALLMENTS

Taxpayers who find themselves among the ten percent of all taxpayers who are subject to higher 1993 federal tax rates can take their time paying up. The new law allows those who owe more 1993 taxes due to higher rates to stretch out the payment of the additional tax over a three-year period. One-third of the additional tax is due on April 15, 1994, while an additional payment of one-third is due on April 15, 1995. The final third must be paid on April 15, 1996. Taxpayers who take advantage of this installment plan must be careful to pay the correct amounts on time. If they pay too little or too late, the IRS will want the rest of the unpaid tax immediately. And, as in all things financial, the IRS has little sense of humor about such matters. If you feel your 1993 tax bill is too high, perhaps we can help for 1994 with some appropriate investment planning.

Whatever financial services you may need, my aim is to provide you with the best quality of service. Put my ten years of experience to work for you. Call Baystate Financial Services at 475-9212 to discuss the options that are right for you. I am a Chartered Financial Consultant, and specialize in individual and business investments and financial planning, insurance and estate planning. My Andover office is located at 10 Essex Street. For your convenience, I also have an office at 100 N. Washington Street in Boston (617-523-4500). Written and verbal references are available on request.

HINT: The plan to pay taxes in installments does not apply to money owned by people whose Social Security benefits are taxed at a higher rate.

Phillips Academy names Pat Edmonds acting secretary

Patricia H. Edmonds has recently been appointed acting secretary of the academy at Phillips Academy.

Headmaster Donald W. McNemar said that Ms. Edmonds will lead the Office of Academy Resources through the 1994 school year. The veteran development officer has held a senior fund-raising role at Andover for almost 20 years. Before her recent appointment, she was director of capital development. Prior to the mergers of Abbot Academy and Phillips Academy, Ms. Edmonds taught English and urban studies at Abbot and was a former Andover Summer Session faculty member.

Ms. Edmonds succeeds Allen Adriance, son of James R. Adriance of Andover, who has become head of Palmer-Trinity School in Miami, Fla.

Phillips Academy, known as Andover, is a coeducational, private, independent boarding high school established in 1778. The school educates more than 1,200 boys and girls from the United States and 40 foreign countries.

Ms. Edmonds lives in Andover with her husband, George, also an educator of long standing.

Board cuts $6K from police budget

By Don Staruk

Selectmen managed to cut just $6,000 out of the police department's budget Monday night as they scrutinized the Fiscal 1995 municipal budget in preparation for its presentation to voters at April Town Meeting.

After hearing an explanation from Police Chief James Johnson on the need for 20 new portable radios, which cost the department $1,200 each, Selectman James Barenboim recommended cutting five radios that were to be kept on reserve or for use by auxiliary police.

"We have to try and cut the budget somehow," Mr. Barenboim said.

Chief Johnson said he had no problem with trying to go with five less radios.

Next year is the last year of a three-year program to replace all the portable radios at the police department. Mr. Barenboim said everybody wants the police department to have the best equipment, but residents at the tax classification hearings in December asked what the board members were doing to cut the budget, and he was responding to that.

The proposed police budget was $3,087,672, up $118,000 from this year. Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski had already cut Chief Johnson's request for $3,100,672 by $13,000, some of which was for a computer hook-up that would link the cruisers to the department's computers. The original request also included money for additional radar units.

Selectman Gerald Silverman also asked for a detailed list of the chief's anticipated $5,000 in out-of-state travel expenses. Mr. Silverman said he thought that item would have been reduced since the department dropped the national accreditation program this year. The chief said he had skipped annual police chief meetings for the last several years so he and other officers involved in the accreditation program could attend accreditation meetings. He will now resume attending the chiefs' meetings. He also said the $5,000 includes expenses for other department members to attend FBI training, juvenile-officer training and other courses.

The budget includes $67,000 for anticipated pay raises for police department personnel, much of it back pay officers are expected to receive once a contract is settled. Police have been without a contract

THE REAL ESTATE CORNER

with Jean Fitzgerald & Pamela Lebowitz

SHOULD YOU REMODEL OR MOVE?

Your third child is on the way, making your three bedroom home seem a little cramped. You would also like a family room and a hideout for the adults. While you are put off by the high price of larger homes, the idea of living with contractors and plaster dust for a long period of time doesn't sound appealing. What should you do?

Before you decide on a major home improvement project, talk with a Realtor who knows your neighborhood. Will the changes you have in mind over-improve your home, making it difficult for you to re-sell and get your money out of your home? Find out how much your present home is worth just as it is. Maybe it has appreciated enough to allow for a large down payment, making the mortgage payments on a larger home less than you thought. If you can find another home that already has everything you would like to add to your present one, it may be worth making a move in order to avoid the stress and inconvenience of remodeling.

Board of Selectmen cuts $6,000 from police budget

since July 1, 1992.

The cost of fuel for cruisers will go up $10,000 because the department has three more officers on patrol now. Three of the force's 46 officers were out on long-term sick leave for the past few years and were retired this year. Three new officers have been hired to replace them and that means more cruisers on the street, the chief said.

Fire Department

The proposed fire department budget is up $173,000 from this year and selectmen did not recommend any cuts after reviewing it with Chief Harold Hayes.

The fire budget includes $77,000 in anticipated raises. Firefighters have also been without contracts or a raise since July 1, 1992.

Revaluation discussion

Selectmen voted unanimously to ask William Krajewski, town assessor, and a representative of Patriot Properties Inc., the company that performed residential home inspections for the assessors office for revaluation purposes, to come to the board's Monday, March 7, meeting and explain the revaluation process again and to answer some questions about the process.

Selectman Larry Larsen pushed for the discussion because he said many residents believe they received unfair property assessments in last year's property revaluation, the first such revaluation in town in 10 years, and they deserve to have their questions answered.

The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. instead of the usual 7:30 p.m., and the revaluation discussion will be the first item on the agenda.

Questions from the public are welcome, but the board wants to get the questions to the town manager in advance so the assessor and his staff will have time to answer them if they require research. The board will not encourage questions from residents during the meeting, but they will not prohibit them.

Dr. Larsen said he has had more than 100 phone calls from residents with questions or comments on their valuations.

Chairman William Downs said he has checked actual sale prices from recent months against the property valuations and found that the sales prices are generally 10 percent higher than the valuations. The difference should not be a surprise since the valuations for the Fiscal 1994 tax bills are as of Jan. 1, 1993, and are based on values from 1992.

Board members pointed out that the values have already been set and approved by the secretary of state for this year, but that information from the meeting could help improve the process for future years.

Satellite parking extended

The board approved a three-month extension of the satellite parking program in the central business district. The program was scheduled to end at the end of February, but will now run through the end of May.

The extension will give selectmen time to review the program so they can decide whether to continue it for another year. It will also provide planners time to solicit feedback on the program from participants, and to poll the public for the level of interest in continuing the program.

STUDENT PROJECTS DISPLAY ENERGY EXPERTISE

◀ Owen Fitzpatrick, Bobby Mazza and Bobby Cleary made a model trash-burning plant and working street lights. They explained how a transformer converts energy into a useful lower voltage.

Photos by Lisa Adelsberger
Amanda Barash and Cynthia Cohen demonstrated how alternating current works, making lights go on powered by a household drill.

Adrea Lee shows Ronnie Ginsberg Ventura, a South School parent, the solar-powered car that she made with Toni LeBarre (at far left) and Janice Chu.

Adam Lustig and Adam Lundquist exhibited a detailed description of how electric motors work, and gave examples of how the electric motor changed Andover.

Jennifer Busby and Katie Buckley did their project on how electricity works, showing how a buzzer produces Morse Code communication.

South fifth-graders exhibit their applications of energy

By Christine McCarthy
South School PTO

The South School fifth-grade presented its annual Energy Fair on Tuesday, Feb. 8. Students filled the cafeteria with projects demonstrating every imaginable energy form. While some exhibits explained traditional energy sources, such as batteries and hydroelectric plants, many showed applications of solar or other alternative energies.

Students, working individually or in teams of two or three, spent approximately six weeks on their project, from choosing the topic, through researching the subject, to producing the exhibit. Their goal was to apply knowledge about energy chains, transfer and conversion that they acquired in class to an energy-related project. Students also had to be able to explain their exhibits and answer questions about related issues.

Their creations illustrated numerous aspects of the energy theme. Some explained how common items work, like a battery or a dimmer switch. Others demonstrated applications such as a solar home, electric or solar cars, or wind- or water-powered generators. Jenny Anese, Laura Mertes and Sarah Ferranti chose a different

SCHOOLTALK

Mark McQuillan honored for service to schools by PTO

Mark K. McQuillan, Andover's superintendent of schools, was honored Tuesday at a luncheon at 18 Elm Street restaurant by the Townwide PTO for his commitment to education, civic responsibility and continuing service to the town of Andover.

"The Townwide PTO, through Dr. McQuillan's leadership and foresight, brings together a PTO president and delegate from each of the public schools in Andover, plus two 766 PAC representatives," according to a PTO statement.

This year's officers are moderator, Debra Silberstein; secretary, Kim McElfresh; and treasurer, Mahdu Sridhar.

"The result of the Townwide PTO has been increased communication between school communities, sharing concerns in an open and collaborative manner and increasing cooperation," according to the PTO.

The Townwide PTO specifically acknowledged Dr. McQuillan's ability to bring the public school community together and his efforts to involve more community members in education-related issues, in part through the creation of various committees and task forces.

"Andover can be proud of our curriculum renewal plan and instructional goals for our schools based on the Three-Column Framework," the PTO said. Dr. McQuillan was also recognized "for his commitment to a civic-responsible youth, a community of lifelong learners, and his creativity in resolving difficult issues before this community over the past three-plus years," the statement said.

Andover schools receive grants from Digital Equipment

Mark K. McQuillan, superintendent of schools, announced last week that Andover public schools is one of 23 school systems throughout New England to receive grants through Digital Equipment Corp.'s K-12 Education Grant Program.

The program was developed to promote academic excellence and enhance the core competencies of students. It provides $75,000 in cash and equipment grants to 23 schools in 18 communities in Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine.

Andover High School received a $500 grant to support its proposal "Reaching New Heights with Hot Air Balloons." South Elementary received a grant of $3,600 for its proposal "Science for Children" and Bancroft Elementary obtained $2,500 for a project called "Science all around Us." These grants represented the work of many people. Eileen Woods, principal of South, Debra Dunn, principal of Bancroft, and Kathleen Aeder, teacher at Andover High School, helped spearhead this effort.

According to Ann Hurd, Digital's New England community relations manager, "This grant is part of Digital's long-term commitment to those communities in which the company and its employees have a presence. By working with the school to support and encourage academic innovation among teachers, we hope to contribute in a positive way to the scholastic development of today's youth."

Dr. McQuillan congratulated the members of Bancroft, South and Andover High School and extended his thanks to Digital.

St. Augustine's School shows what it did with a $20K grant

By Neil Fater

Martin Luther King, Norman Schwartzkopf and Adolph Hitler debated President and Hillary Clinton, Plato and Hippocrates on the issues of health care, racism and education at St. Augustine's School recently.

"It was just a great debate with minds from the history of the world," said Paul King, director of development at St. Augustine's. "It was just a really great concept."

Down the hall, an active volcano threatened to prevent consumption of Hawaiian food as people stood in awe.

Of course none of it, save the food, was actually real.

St. Augustine's did not have some sort of historical seance, and the volcano was simply a model created by a group of fourth-graders studying Hawaii. Yet both were an important part of St. Augustine School's annual academic fair.

"It's almost like going through a children's museum," Mr. King said of the fair. "I shouldn't even say children, I should just say museum with some of the projects they had going."

Among these projects were efforts at raising money for conservation of land, learning how to milk a cow, and understanding the people of different areas and eras. In each grade and classroom, students were available to teach visitors about their chosen field of expertise.

"It was not just science. There was history involved, history of religion," said Mr. King. "They had to do a lot of history on these people and the time they lived in."

The academic fair, held Thursday, Feb. 3, was one of the highlights of the school's Catholic Schools Week celebration. The week-long celebration ended Friday with a liturgy.

However, St. Augustine's had something to celebrate even before its annual week-long extravaganza.

In January, the school was awarded a $20,000 contribution from Newman's Own Goodwill Alliance. The grant was designed to help bolster the school's technological curriculum.

"They were aware of what we were doing with technology. They saw that there was a need in the technological end," said Mr. King.

Actor Paul Newman, the founder and president of Newman's Own, has donated more than $50 million to numerous charities during the last 12 years. Newman's Own donates to charity 100 percent of its after-tax profits from the sale of its all-natural food products.

Mr. King said he believed that a local company's contact with Newman's Own and the school's past success with technology programs were responsible for the grant.

"Because of that awareness of what we were doing and how successful we had been they knew if they made a contribution it would be put to good use," he said. "Speaking from past experience, people want to make contributions to successful programs because they want the money to be well-used."

In the recent past, St. Augustine's was chosen for a technological program called Reach for the Stars, which installed a satellite dish, a modem and a fax machine, and networked one computer in every classroom.

According to Mr. King, the school's past success with technology was mirrored by the results of Catholic Schools Week.

"We do it every year to let people in the community know what's going on and what we are doing," he said. "It's a whole week of PR and community awareness."

All open house during the week allowed parents to come into the school, witness classes and speak with administrators. Registration for the 1994-'95 school has begun.

"We stopped accepting kindergarten applications because we had so many applicants. Registration was very, very successful for us," said Mr. King.

St. Augustine's will offer a nursery and a pre-kindergarten class for the first time next year.

Participants will use different selections from the Gospels to "pray the scriptures."

The Lenten series will be held in the Parish Hall from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Don't worry, be happy ... Purim is here

Temple Emanuel of Andover will celebrate the joyous holiday of Purim with Jews around the world on Thursday, Feb. 24.

The story is based upon the "Scroll of Esther" in the Bible. The story is a fanciful one; some, in fact, doubt its accuracy. Because of a grudge against the Jewish people, Haman urged King Ahasuerus to destroy the Jewish people. Queen Esther, who was Jewish, urged her husband to deny Haman's request. The king was very devoted to his wife and the Jews were allowed to live.

Children and adults dress up in costumes, mostly based upon the Purim story. The megillah, the scroll that contains the Purim story, is read. When the name Haman is mentioned, everyone boos and stamps their feet. Special treats called hamantaschen, three-cornered pastries filled with poppy seeds or other jams, reminiscent of the three-cornered hat that Haman reportedly wore, are eaten.

This year's Purim celebration at Temple Emanuel will begin Thursday at 6 p.m. with a pizza supper, arranged by the Temple Brotherhood. The service and megillah reading will be at 6:45 with refreshments at 7:30 p.m. Call the temple office at 470-1356 for information and dinner reservations.

News deadline at the Andover Townsman is Monday at 5 p.m., except for school news, which is due Friday at 5 p.m.

These Thoughts*

by Garry A. Burke

THE BOND OF PERFECTION

If one could distill life's meaning and purpose down to a single word, it would be "love." This is the positive guiding emotion in all our good works and it is the pure stuff of all good relationships, be they between family, friends, or strangers. The words of Jeremy Taylor go even further - "Love is the greatest thing God can give us, for himself is love; and it is the greatest thing we can give to God, for it will also give ourselves, and carry with it all that is ours. The apostle calls it the bond of perfection; it is the old, the new, and the great commandment, and all the commandments, for it is the fulfilling of the law. It does the work of all the other graces without any instrument but its own immediate virtue."

Possibly the greatest act of love you can bestow on your family is planning ahead for your own death. Without pre-arrangement, the emotional and financial burden that falls upon our loved ones when we die is terrible to bear. Many families are forced to exhaust their savings or go into debt to pay for the expenses associated with a service. You can do a lot to eliminate that burden by calling Burke Funeral Home to discuss pre-arrangement. For more information, please see us at 390 North Main Street or call 475-5200.

ANDOVER TOWNSMAN

Smoking bylaw is ready for April 11

The warrant will be published in the Townsmen March 10.

Following the public hearing at town offices Monday night, which was attended by approximately 40 people, members of the Board of Health went upstairs to the selectmen's meeting where they outlined the highlights of the bylaw for board members there. As it stands now, the proposed bylaw would ban smoking in:

- Municipal buildings;
- Restaurants;
- Retail stores, except in designated areas not open to the public;
- Other common public areas such as hallways, elevators, stairways and restrooms.

It also would:

- Ban free-standing cigarette displays in retail stores;
- Require tobacco sales employees to sign an affidavit acknowledging the content of the bylaw;
- Ban cigarette vending machines except in bars.

- Make violations of the bylaw a non-criminal offense punishable by a fine of $25 or $50 for a first offense;
- Make use of the ticketing procedures already in place for bylaw violations;

- Allow designated smoking areas in museums, clinics, nursing homes, long-term care facilities, sporting arenas, hotel and motel lobbies, theaters and private schools.
- Allow smoking in bars, private residences, hotel and motel rooms, public facilities, rented facilities while used for private functions, private and semi-private rooms in long-term care facilities and tobacco stores.

Variance allowed
Board of Health members also backed away from a proposal to not allow any variances to the bylaw. If the bylaw is approved as it is now written, parties can petition the Board of Health for a variance if "manifest injustice" can be proven and an equal amount of environmental protection can be provided non-smokers.

Douglas Dunbar, chairman of the Board of Health, told selectmen that restrictions on coupons were dropped because their distribution through newspapers, magazines and the mail would be too difficult to control. The same reason led to dropping the ban for town vehicles.

Exception for Public Works

During the public hearing, Robert McQuade, Public Works director, asked the Board of Health to exclude the water treatment facility and Highway Department buildings from the ban on smoking in municipal buildings, and to exclude Public Works vehicles from the ban for town vehicles. In exchange, Mr. McQuade asked for a chance to allow his department to police its own buildings and vehicles to resolve any problems with smokers and non-smokers.

"I am a smoker. No one should have to put up with my second-hand smoke or anyone else's," Mr. McQuade said.

But he said that very few members of the public visit those two buildings, that smoking is already not allowed in several areas of the water treatment plant, and that the diesel fumes in the Lewis Street garage are far worse than any cigarette smoke there. He also said he would disallow smoking in vehicles when more than one person was in any vehicle.

"I would like a year to show we can fulfill the intent of the bylaw without any smoke cops chasing us with $50 bills," Mr. McQuade said.

He suggested other municipal buildings be allowed the same opportunity.

"Allow the town employees to police themselves. Within six months or a year, if there are any problems, throw us in jail, bring out the smoke cops," Mr. McQuade said.

Other speakers at the public hearing included:

• Bob Marmer, a former radio broadcaster from Lawrence who said he had a laryngectomy (larynx removed) after smoking for 40 years. Using a voice box pressed to the hole in his throat he speaks and breathes through, Mr. Marmer said he is now exceptionally sensitive to second-hand smoke, since his nose and throat no longer filter the air he breathes.

"Please, let's cut out the cigarette smoke. It's not helping anybody," Mr. Marmer said.

• Alicia Parsons, owner of Eighteen Elm Street restaurant, said all her dining rooms are non-smoking, but she allows smoking in the lounge and the bar would hurt her bar business. She said she would put filters in the bar if that would help. She also asked the board to hold off for six months, which is when Congress is scheduled to address the issue of smoking in restaurants;

• Sarah Crabtree, of Main Street, who said she knows about smokers' rights, but also said the public has a right to clean air.

• Five students from Doherty Middle School - Laurel Outwin, Hannah Cole, Jessica Ellis, John-Paul Sarnie and Nathan Samuels - members of a Kids for Kids program at the school, said they have dedicated their efforts this year to keep other kids from starting to smoke. They perform a play that is a parody of the Brady Bunch television program where the two older kids start to smoke. The point they are trying to get across is that smoking isn't good for you, and the strategy is that kids are more apt to hear that message when it comes from their peers rather than from their parents. Parents don't think their kids smoke, Nathan Samuels said at the hearing.

"It's amazing how many kids are smoking," he said.

The students said kids flock to the restaurants, and specifically named McDonald's, to smoke after school, "and right outside this building," at the gazebo in The Park next to town offices.

• Mary Nolan, of the Massachusetts Department of Public Health's tobacco control program in Lawrence, who cried as she told the board first of how she started smoking as a child when she bought cigarettes in machines, then of how her mother died of emphysema and lung cancer at age 53.

"I do urge you to support this," she said of the bylaw.

Ms. Nolan also said she would visit Andover more often if there were more smoke-free restaurants;

• Joan Ellis who told the hearing she has two children, one with asthma.

"We haven't even gone inside McDonald's for about two years," Ms. Ellis said.

• Tom Iacobucci, an Amesbury public health employee, who said waiting for Boston or Washington to act on the smoking issue is not an option because tobacco industry lobbyists will delay any action;

• Tom Koravos, owner of Ford's Coffee Shop, who said he supports the bylaw and that it doesn't go far enough.

"In the town of Andover they should ban smoking completely unless you're out in the street," Mr. Koravos said.

He admitted that smoking is allowed in his restaurant. Ford's has a sign that says no smoking please, "but it doesn't say no smoking or else," Mr. Koravos said.

• Bob Powers, of Christy's Market, and Brendan Foster, owner of Rolling Green Mobil on Lowell Street, both of whom said not allowing the free-standing displays of cigarettes would hurt their businesses. Mr. Foster said he would lose $8,000 a year.

• Fire Chief Harold Hayes, who said the ban on smoking in public buildings is in conflict with a state law that says the fire department must designate a safe smoking area if a company requests one. He also said forcing smokers outside causes problems for the fire department when smokers flick burning cigarettes under loading docks or under shrubs next to buildings.

• Ed Sweda Jr. an attorney with the state Department of Public Health, who said the fire regulations the chief was talking about were superseded by the 1987 Clean Indoor Air law, which banned smoking in public buildings except in designated areas when buildings were large enough to accommodate such a designated area, and by the Education Reform Act of 1993.

• Marcia Houston, a resident and occupational therapist and fitness trainer who said she sees this "as an issue of money as opposed to doing what's right. I think doing what's right is important" as opposed to what's profitable, she said.

• Max Gabriella, owner of Perfecto's bagel shop on North Main Street, and Frank Pino, owner of Dunkin Donuts on North Main Street and Main Street.

"We opened a year ago and we've had a non-smoking establishment since we opened," Mr. Gabriella said.

Mr. Pino said his Main Street store has been smoke free since it opened and he's had nothing but positive comments. The Shawsheen store went smoke free last month and he has had no complaints, Mr. Pino said. Three women at the hearing went up to Mr. Pino afterward and said they didn't know his business was smoke free and that he had made three new customers, according to Ms. Martel.

• Christian Vara, who is involved in the vending machine business, and who brought a full-size vending machine into the hall outside the public hearing to demonstrate how a lock-out device can be used to keep kids from getting cigarettes from machines. After Mr. Vara and the others returned to the hearing room, John-Paul Sarnie, one of the Doherty students, asked to speak, then produced a pack of cigarettes. He said he had taken them from where Mr. Vara had left them on top of the machine, and just wanted to show how kids get cigarettes.

"Everybody was there. Nobody was watching," said Joanne Martel, Andover's health code enforcement officer, who has been working on the smoking bylaw.

Tobacco control director appointed

By Don Staruk

The Board of Selectmen Monday night voted unanimously to accept a $140,000 tobacco control grant from the state on behalf of the four communities who will benefit from the grant - Andover, North Andover, Methuen and Middleton. They also voted to appoint a program director.

Pamela Ross-Kung, of Revere, was appointed program director of the Merrimack Valley Public Health Coalition Tobacco Control Program. The money for the program came from the cigarette tax instituted last year to raise funds for just such programs.

Andover accepted the grant for the coalition and will act as the lead agency for "fiduciary purposes," which means someone had to sign for the money from the state, according to town officials. The program will not cost the town anything except some office space in which the program director, an assistant and a secretary can work.

The intent of the program is to educate the public on the dangers of smoking and use of other tobacco products. The program is temporary and is funded for just one year at a time, but funding is expected to last for at least three years.

If successful, the program should put itself out of business since its aim is to reduce the sales of cigarettes, the sales of which fund the program.

To our 'trekkies':

Like trying to walk a rocky ledge on stilts, our words seem awkward and inadequate, but both you kids possess sensitivity, insight, kindness and honesty. As individuals, you, Lisa, provide our warm sunny breeze and Tim, our comic relief, both of which we need and treasure every day. Don't ever let fear, pressure or judgment keep you from us (even if you think we'll get mad. We're still new at this parenting stuff. It's only been 14 years). We love you dearly.

Dearest Joseph:

What a wonderful opportunity to tell you and the world what it is like to be your mother. I'll start at the beginning. From the day you were born I noticed you were a very intense, focused bright little baby and as you grew, others noticed your extraordinary brightness and talent too. Your father and I would often say to each other, "He is destined for greatness." It's just a feeling you get and I don't believe all parents say this. You seemed to have much to say to me from the beginning and sure enough, your first words started at just 6 months old.

Your favorite toy at 10 months old was the piano. You would bang on your toy piano to music on the radio and sing along. I am so proud when your beautiful singing, playing and humor is enjoyed by others, and they too can share the pleasure your company brings me every day.

You have been truly blessed with abundant intellect, musical talent, sensitivity and compassion. Your light just seems to burn brighter every day and I am confident that you will accomplish much in your life and bring joy to all who know you. Watching you discover who you are is a daily adventure for me.

You are a precious gift from heaven and I thank God every day for sending you to me. Thank you for being such a fine son, Joseph. I love you more than words can say. Your very proud mother,

- F.

Dear Dawn and Neil:

We love you before we even laid eyes on you and had many hopes and dreams for you as well. Due to your hard work and determination, many of those hopes and dreams have already come true and we're very proud of you. You're both loving and caring and share many other similar qualities. Yet, you also possess your own individual personalities and you're each special and gifted in your own unique ways.

We love each of you for who you are and consider ourselves very blessed that you're our children. Thank you for adding to our lives and giving us memories we'll treasure forever.

Love ya,

Mom and Dad

To Courtney, Carroll and Christie Cunningham:

Our life hasn't been easy, as I'm sure you'll all agree.

And even with all of the stress, we've remained a supportive family. You've made me very proud, each of you in your own special way. You're very caring people and the world needs more like you today. No matter where you go, what you say or what you do, I hope that you never forget that I'll always love you.

Guess who!

Dear Amy and Ross:

You are each so special and yet so different it is tough to choose just a few reasons why I think you're both so great.

Amy, you have the wonderful ability to see all the goodness in people and you live your life following that positive premise.

Ross, you are ever aware of others' needs, dependable and helpful. Your ability to make us laugh is a super stressbuster.

I'm so thankful to have you both and love you very much.

To our son, Jim, daughter-in-law, Maria, and grandchildren, Jack and Renee:

We are equally proud of you. You are a super dad and super mom, who are doing a wonderful job, raising our precious grandchildren - Renee and Jack. Renee, you are so beautiful, independent and inquisitive; and Jack, you are so handsome, smart and excited about learning. Be proud to be yourselves; you are wonderful.

Our love to you,

Dear Kym, Kramer and Kel:

I'd like to tell you all that I thoroughly enjoy - and brag about - your uniquenesses, even when they create pandemonium. Kym, it took guts to decide Nigeria wasn't for you; best of luck in your new digs. You will do well in life, because you won't let anyone hold you back.

Kramer (KC): Your clarity of vision and your logic amaze me, as do your musical talent and the effort you put into refining it. Although you try to believe otherwise, you feel too deeply to be a successful cynic - and that's good. I hope you do get into NYU and that it helps you enjoy your many strengths.

Kel: So Spielberg was younger; that doesn't mean he was better. When have you NOT succeeded at what you've tried? I admire your spirit of adventure, your abilities, and your tenaciousness; you'll make it happen.

Mom

Jake:

One of the nicest things that has happened to me in the past few years is getting to know you. I just love your sense of humor and the indiscriminate and caring way in which you relate with others. Watching you grow and mature has brought joy and happiness into my life. Don't ever change, Jakus.

- J.

Dear Katie, Kevin and Kristina:

I wake up every morning and am thankful that I have been given the gift of being your mother.

My dear Katie, you're growing into such a caring and responsible young lady and "giving" in all that you do. You are also so musically talented and fun to be around.

My mischievous Kevin, who I love dearly - so sensitive and always the first to give his Mom a compliment. I love your laughter and your incredible ability to fix things at such a young age.

And last, my little Kristina, so bubbly and cute, you are always ready to flash your lovely smile (that's why you get away with so much) at a moment's notice. You still appreciate being cuddled on the sofa while we watch TV together and I treasure every moment.

I love you all with all my heart.

Mom, Vickie Henry

To Jen, John and Erik:

If there is one thing in my life of which I am most proud and which brings me the most joy, it is being your Mom. It is both exciting and satisfying to me to watch you grow into decent, honest and kind-hearted human beings. Jen, your bubbly personality, intelligence and thoughtfulness - John, your talent, kindness and sensitivity - Erik, your affection, wit and sense of humor - are all so cherished. God has truly been good to me.

Love you always,

Mom

Jen, John and Erik:

I just wanted to take a moment to tell you I love you.

Sometimes it seems we are all too busy to let each other know that we care.

Jen - You have turned into a beautiful young woman. I am so proud of you. I know that you will be a success in your future career.

John - Although we don't agree as to what is good music, it doesn't change the way I feel about you. Never give up - things will work out if you give it your all.

Erik, videogame man - Even though your hair gets in the way of your beautiful eyes, I know that you can still see that we love you.

I love you all.

Dear Ally, Dave and Danny:

You are each so special and we are very proud of you. You are all full of chutzpah, Hebrew for spirit, and have a zest for fun and learning which we hope you will have forever.

Ally, you have been unbelievable since you were born. You seem to possess wisdom beyond your years. You are our best girl.

Dave, you have been delicious since you were born. You are shrewd and sweet. This should serve you well as you grow. You are great.

Danny, you have been a character since you came on board. We suspect you didn't have much of a chance, you needed to let us all know you are here. We have never seen quite so much energy in any child ever. You are terrific.

Dear Janice, Karen and Stephen:

We are proud to see how you have approached adulthood. Janice, continue to display your warmth and charm to others as you have to our family.

Karen, you are special to us for your compassionate and unselfish ways - always being there when we or anybody needs you.

Stephen, your sensitivity, openness and artistic abilities make you unique to us and the people around you.

Each of you never change these individual qualities. They are what make you the special children you are to us.

We love you.

Dear Danny and Alyssa:

We are so lucky to be your parents. Danny, your exuberance astounds us. Although your task is difficult - you are constantly being challenged to temper and channel your energy - your spirit remains so high and your unbounded affection and that smile of yours can make us so easily forget about the spilled juice, broken television, markers on the upholstery...

Alyssa, you shine so brightly. Your happy, easygoing temperament makes you so much fun to be with. The new things you learn each day - every new word, the way you play hide and seek with Max, proudly feed yourself each little pea and try to run as fast as your big brother - and the way you express yourself with your delightful squeals and dancing are all so beautiful. Thank you both for blessing our lives with such joy. We love you.

For Toby Guzowski:

With that wonderfully engaging, boyish smile of yours, you could win the heart of many a young lady. Also important is the obvious love, devotion and loyalty you have for your sister and brother.

Lea Ventura

Dear Kira and Lea:

On this Valentine's Day I want to tell you both how much I love you.

Kira, I admire and respect your working so hard to become your own person as you struggle to create a unique place for yourself in the world and make difficult moral decisions which are sometimes unpopular. I am in awe of your grace, skill and perseverance as you glide along the ice in a complicated routine or tap dance through a difficult combination.

Lea, your boundless generosity, limitless energy and impish spirit are a joy to behold. Your persistence and love of learning as you attempt to read a difficult book or begin a creative sewing project inspire me, and I am constantly amazed by your sophisticated understanding of the world and the people around you.

I am so very proud of you both for so many reasons. But on this Valentine's Day, you need to know that although I admire your many accomplishments, I do not love you because of them. I love you because you are, quite simply, lovable.

And though I may sometimes feel sad for you when you cannot be or have what you think you need, or even angry at you when you cannot be or do what I think I need, I will love you always. I will love you in your failures as well as in your successes. I will love you with your weaknesses as well as with your strengths. And nothing that happens will ever change that.

Love always,

Reach out to your child

Some parents worry that they will not bond with their baby after it is born. But it is a rare parent whose life isn't changed the minute that newborn is placed in his or her arms. When you hold him, when you look into his eyes, when you count the toes and fingers, really, it is a miracle.

Invited to write a letter to their children, telling them why they are so special, some parents took the time to think about their children, and to express their love to them.

The word "special" is prominent in the letters; the word "love" is there, too, along with the word "blessed."

We hope kids will read their parents' letters and be reminded of their love. And we hope that parents will read their own letters again and take time out to be with that special son, daughter or friend to whom you wrote.

This community has been talking recently about its special children. Some people say Andover children participate in too many after-school activities; some say the kids have no time alone to themselves; and some say parents are preoccupied, busy at work, and kids are watching too much television. Some people say parents put pressure on their kids to get into the best schools.

Whether you wrote your child a letter that is published in this paper today, or even if you didn't, take a look at the letters and remember how precious our children are.

Give your child an extra hug, and if she won't allow that, slip her a note. Our kids are special and they need to know it and be reminded of it. Often.

One unidentified man called an hour before deadline for the letters Monday and asked how many letters the paper had received. What we should have said is: Dare to love your child boldly, don't pay attention to what anyone else is doing or thinks; reach out to your child often and with great feeling; he or she will get used to it; being loved is a good thing to get used to.

P.S., We think that Dad sent a message of love after all.

The Fater Vacation Experience

By Neil Fater

Planning a vacation? Don't worry. There could only be one vacation this bad. And my parents got it.

Remember that Brady Bunch episode where they went to Hawaii? Greg couldn't even hang five, Peter slept with a tarantula, tiki dolls and maids in hula skirts figured way too prominently, and Vincent Price (apparently hard up for cash) guest starred.

Well my parents' vacation was almost as bad as watching that - for 68 hours straight. Because that's how long my parents were in the airport.

But before we go into that, perhaps a little background on just what makes a true Fater vacation is in order.

First, a true Fater vacation involves lots of precipitation. Usually, this is of the rain variety, but in extreme cases, like the one mentioned above, snow, hail and sleet seem to be allowed as well. Even tropical monsoons do not seem out of the question. When I was in college, two friends and I drove to Florida to cover Red Sox spring training for another newspaper. We stayed in a dive of a motel where the only other resident was some drunk who had apparently lived there several months. He seemed to enjoy coming to his doorway and yelling at other guests when they drove up to their room. Did I mention we were the only other guests?

Anyway, our first day in Winter Haven I woke up about 7 a.m. and flicked on the television. One of those local TV-anchor puppets was saying that there was a hurricane warning on for Polk County. Now I had no idea what county I was in. But having lived The Fater Vacation Experience for 20 years, I could make a pretty good guess. Outside, just from the rain that night, the entire parking lot was covered with a couple feet of water. At least the rain put some fresh water in the pool.

I waded across to pay the $29.50 for another night's lodging.

The second crucial element in the Fater Vacation Experience is that something must go wrong with the accommodations.

When I was 12, for instance, my family decided to take a vacation on the West Coast.

The plan was to spend a day or two in Las Vegas and then to drive out to Los Angeles and San Francisco for several days each. It seemed like a pretty good plan. Right up until the rent-a-car broke down in the middle of the Mojave desert.

But it wasn't really the oppressive heat that scared us as we waited the hour for a cop to drive by and get help. And it wasn't that my mother had been hospitalized the first day in Las Vegas and was still recovering. You see, my sister is a couple of years older than I am. That made her a teen-age girl stuck in the desert with her parents, her brother and a broken-down Buick. 'Nuff said.

Fortunately, the replacement vehicle did get us where we needed to go - albeit without air conditioning and with a coat of mud in lieu of paint on the chassis. 'Got to love those LeCars.

So there you have the two basic tenets of the Fater Vacation Experience. Both were present in my parents' recent trip, a cruise with my mother's parents and sister around the Caribbean.

A cruise probably sounds pretty good right now. It probably sounds like a great chance to get away from all this snow. But that presumes the snow will let you get away. And historically, Old Man Winter and Mother Nature have been pretty possessive of us Fater kids.

The first big storm of this season, so hard to differentiate from all the others at this point, hit the Northeast the night before my parents' 7 a.m. flight to Puerto Rico. Their ship was scheduled to take off from there at 11 a.m.

The deal they were locked into forced the airline to fly my parents

Say no to air pollution

Editor, Townsmen:

I have been a community health nurse working with patients living with chronic disease at home. I have cared for a patient with emphysema who felt she wore an iron vest and who had terrifying nightmares because of oxygen deprivation. But she could not stop smoking. I have cared for a patient with peripheral vascular disease who would rather have his remaining leg amputated than give up smoking. I have worked with alcoholics who could give up alcohol but not cigarettes.

I have the utmost respect for the addictive power of nicotine and I feel very empathetic towards those who suffer from it.

From the perspective of a community health nurse, I have observed a growing number of patients with asthma; adults developing it later in life. I feel that more and more people are complaining about what they are calling "allergies." And they are using more medications. I feel that the quality of our air has deteriorated more than we know and that these growing physical symptoms are evidence of that. I feel that those of us who suffer from these complaints often feel helpless to change the quality of the air we breathe.

Breathing someone else's cigarette smoke seems to be one place where we can say "no" to air pollution. I feel that "smoker's rights" should not include the right to increase air pollution for the non-smoker. I hope that Andover will have the courage to take a stand against addiction and protect the rights of non-smokers to have clean air.

I have heard that smokers feel their rights are being denied by the proposed regulation of smoking in public places. I have heard that restaurants feel their need to stay in business is being threatened. I know that the tobacco industry and the drug industry work hard to protect their financial interests. But nothing should take precedence over the general public's need to be as healthy as possible. I support the efforts of the Board of Health to regulate smoking.

No more taxes, no more expenses

Editor, Townsmen:

The School Committee in Andover has a poor sense of timing. After the revaluation fiasco, this is not the time for more taxes.

I strongly object to the School Committee's current tax and spend plan. Surely, the committee has considered alternate plans to resolve the town's school crisis. I am not sure that there is a crisis.

would not leave until early evening because so many people from the East Coast had trouble making it in. In the end, only my parents and grandparents missed the boat. So to speak.

Of course, no one else on the ship had the unique opportunity to stay in a Martinique hotel with bars on the windows, and a slit at the front door that the owner could look out through and decide whether he wanted to buzz people in. And what other 70-year-olds besides my grandparents were able to get the kind of cardiovascular activity that comes from carrying a week's worth of clothing up a three-story spiral staircase after three days of dragging it to and from various canceled flights?

In the end it worked out as my parents found a greater appreciation for their jobs and for staying at home to sleep.

Truthfully, I don't mean to sound as if I'm complaining.

I've lived a pretty charmed life. I have a great family, girlfriend, job, friends, and I wasn't on this latest trip.

I hope you all enjoy your vacations and escape from this weather.

But as for me, I'm just going to pull down the shade and keep typing. It's a lot safer.

If alternate plans have been proposed, reports must have been written setting the pros and cons of each plan. These reports should be available to the residents so that they may determine why these plans were rejected.

We have been through the cycle of building schools and closing schools. Now we are into rebuilding schools again. We are not yo-yos. We are not made of money. We expect intelligent representation. Our situation is not unique. Is it too much to ask for innovative ideas, such as have been implemented in other parts of the country?

Will the School Committee comment on why parochial schools are so successful? Maybe our incompetent School Committee should be replaced by those who manage the parochial schools.

One way Andover residents can bring our current runaway spending programs under control is to replace the incompetent decision-makers.

Teacher: Increase isn't enough

Editor, Townsmen:

Andover is approaching an important crossroads in its funding of education. The superintendent has called for a 5.4 percent increase for 1994-'95 while the School Committee appears ready to accept a recommendation from the town manager for a 4.2 percent increase. Neither figure is adequate to maintain the type of school system that our children and our town need and deserve.

Although the superintendent's budget calls for an increase in teaching positions, it also calls for cuts in several key areas, including teacher-on-assignment and team leader positions in the elementary and middle schools. (Teachers-on-assignment are responsible for coordinating curriculum and curriculum initiatives on the elementary and middle school levels; team leaders coordinate team teaching and deal with the emotional and psychological issues of our students, who are at a very vulnerable age.)

In addition, guidance and media personnel cuts have never been replaced, the staff development budget has been cut to a bare minimum, and several classes are filled to and beyond maximum capacity.

Andover schools have been able to maintain high standards only because of the tremendous commitment of parents, teachers and administrators, many of whom have stretched themselves to the limits. However, this situation cannot continue indefinitely if we are to maintain a top quality school system. We must make our own commitment to provide adequate funding for our schools so that our children and our community are prepared for the knowledge-based economy of the 21st century.

This commitment must be made not only to those who utilize our schools directly, but also by the community at large. In Andover, property values are clearly linked to the quality of our school system - ask any realtor in town.

What must we do so that our community is not "penny wise and pound foolish?" First, our School Committee needs to put forward a budget that actually meets the needs of our system. This should include provisions for reducing class size and bringing staffing levels back to what they were in the mid-1980s. We must also strengthen our staff development effort to insure that Andover teachers remain second to none and back this effort with an investment equal to at least 3 percent of the total education budget as required under the new Education Reform Law.

I ask everyone who cares about the future of Andover to join me in urging the members of the School Committee to invest adequately in our most important resource: our children.

Tom Meyers, president
Andover Education Association

Teens could gather at school

Editor, Townsmen:

Why don't we make use of our schools for a meeting place for our teen-agers? Why wait? Why build? Why spend more money? We have a centralized tax-paid facility to use right now.

What if every Friday night from 7 to 10 p.m. we made use of the High School cafeteria to hold dances. It need cost little, if anything. Admission of $2 with student ID. The senior class officers could run it. They can get student volunteers who are in communications, music or dance to set up the sound system and announce the music to be played. Students could lend their CDs or tapes to be used each week. Soda and snacks could be sold as usual in the cafeteria.

This centralized meeting place for our teen-agers in high school would be a safe and convenient place for them to meet their peers in an unstructured environment for Friday evenings. They could sit and listen to the music, dance, talk and perhaps the Student Council could have student bands and singers for certain periods of the night.

Why don't we try it now? Let the students organize and self-police it with a few adults as monitors. I would volunteer to help. Would anybody out there pick up this ball?

and grandparents to the next port of call, if they missed that 11 a.m. time. Unfortunately, it also obligated the four of them to do everything in their power to make that time or the deal was off.

Though Logan and the New York airports were closed, somehow the smaller, Providence, R.I., airport was still open the night before. So my parents drove through the storm to my grandparents' house and they hired a cab for $120 to take them to Rhode Island. Of course, by the time they got there their flight had been canceled.

Simply put, they spent the next three days playing musical airplanes, taking their possessions on and off greasy carts and generally learning why suitcases are called luggage. Finally a brilliant Providence-to-upper-New-York-to-Dallas-to-San-Juan-to-Martinique course was plotted to get my family at the second port of call in time for the remaining 4 1/2 days of their trip.

What made this so painful was that they could have originally taken a flight that would have got them to Puerto Rico at noon, one hour after the ship was originally scheduled to set sail. They didn't know that the ship

Reader shares her book ideas

Editor, Townsmen:

The answer to "Have you read any good books lately" is "yes" and one at a time. [Perry Colmore's column, Jan. 27, page 34.] Thank you for sharing the books you have read or are reading. I have jotted your titles down. I get excited about books I like and like to tell people about them.

Gabriel Garcia Marquez has left his impression on me since Love in the Time of Cholera. He combines romance, fantasy, superstition in a tropical tapestry of the 1800s. I have just finished reading Marquez's The General in His Labyrinth.

Last summer I read A Suitable Boy by Vikram Seth. It took me the entire summer to read this 1,400-page book about four intertwined families from India. India is conflicted about its independence from England and Pakistan has won its freedom. The families react to a new India. I still miss Lata who did find a suitable boy. Memorial Hall Library has this book.

Jane Smiley's A Thousand Acres is set on a large family farm in the Midwest. It tells of the settling of the land by the pioneers. I learned old style irrigation that still works today. This is a sensitive story about the secrets in the family that eventually change the farm and family. A beautifully written book that leaves you thinking about the characters long after you have read it.

A Tidewater Morning by William Styron is three short autobiographical novellas. They are set in Richmond, Va., the south of Mr. Styron's youth. You will never forget Shadrack in one of the stories. He is a 90-year-old black man and he has walked hundreds of miles in many months to find his old plantation. He wants to be buried there among his people. A quirk of events denies him his wish. This story will stay with you long after you have read it. The entire book takes a few hours to read. I wanted to hear more from this author; yes, it's like listening to his stories when you read them.

There are popular books that I cannot read past the first 50 pages. I have started several books by Barbara Kinsolver. They simply do not interest me. Likewise Maeva Binchy's books, although I admit to enjoying her Circle of Friends.

Anything by Andre Dubus peaks my interest. He gets to the heart of human joy, pathos and all in between. His style and descriptions of locale, all being around Haverhill and up and down the Merrimack River, make you feel at home.

At present I have just begun Merry Men by Carolyn Chute. This is the author who wrote The Beans of Egypt, Maine; the author who writes of poverty in Maine at the ground level.

I wish Memorial Hall Library had a "reading bee" for adults. Reading out loud enhances the book for the reader as well as the listener. The groundhog has seen his shadow. Fine. A longer winter to read in.

Solution for bored teens

Editor, Townsmen:

It has been the statement of many Andover teens today: "I'm bored."

I would like to ask these teens: Are you receiving the highest grade you can possibly attain in all your studies? Are you participating in the social activities of the schools, town and churches? Have you joined any of the clubs or teams at the school? Are you participating in any sports? Are you volunteering in any capacity?

It seems to me that these teens are really saying "entertain me." It is their job as teens to prepare themselves for adulthood. Part of doing this is learning how to use time wisely. It would be appropriate for them to try many of the activities of the schools, sports associations, Department of Community Services and the endless list of volunteer opportunities.

Pleading for the case that they need a "place to hang out," I would suggest that this would not be the best use of their time. They can better use their time to investigate subject matter of interest with others that are of the same interest. Test their physical limits in the sport of choice. If a team effort is not desired, try some of the other sports such as running or climbing that test you against yourself.

Parents, encourage your teens to be active. It is your job to see that they do their job. Your goal is to have your teen become a positive, contributing member of the working adult society. Challenge their minds, help them to have healthy bodies and attitudes and create an atmosphere of love.

Help someone through a tragic time

Editor, Townsmen:

After attending the recent meeting on adolescent suicide held at the High School a few weeks ago, I felt proud and encouraged. The parental concern was intense, and the caring response expressed by Ruby Easton, Principal Thomas and Superintendent McQuillan was quite evident. As we have learned, there are no quick and easy solutions to such a complex issue.

One of the suggestions discussed was: To foster a sense of self-worth and self-esteem in individuals through the involvement in town activities and volunteer work. This struck a chord with me and our organization. As one of nine volunteers in TIP, our director, Jane Thompson, was recently asked by a grieving mother, "Why do you do this? How can you subject yourself to such pain?" The answer is clear. It gives us great satisfaction to know that we have helped someone during a tragic time.

I am proud that our town has taken steps to address this issue. I am also grateful that town officials have embraced the efforts of the Trauma Intervention Program (TIP).

Seeing the program as a public service to this community, Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski, Police Chief Johnson and Fire Chief Hayes have provided unwavering support of TIP, as have Andover's police officers and firefighters.

All of them took a risk on a "new program" in this conservative New England town because it promised to provide emotional support for the victims of any tragedy at the scene, thereby facilitating a quicker recovery, and provide an outlet for people who like to help others. Thanks to their efforts we have been able to fill a void in the emergency response to a crisis. It is working well. Letters of appreciation from Andover citizens, police and firefighters who have been helped by TIP are precious rewards for this volunteer work. It's important to know the support is here for us in Andover, and we also have room for more.

Andover boys beat Methuen on basketball court

Coach Fazio saw victory in players' faces

By Rick Harrison

Andover High boys varsity basketball Coach Dave Fazio told his wife Colleen he'd call her after the noontime "shoot-around" the day of the recent Methuen game.

The Golden Warriors were coming off a lackluster 42-36 victory over a weak Dracut team, and with Methuen playing some of the best basketball in the Merrimack Valley Conference a lot of people were predicting the end of Andover's lengthy league winning streak.

"I called her about 12:30 and said 'these kids are ready.' I could just see in their faces they were going to beat Methuen," said Coach Fazio.

And rip the Rangers they did several hours later, registering a 71-63 victory at Methuen that wasn't as close as the final score indicates.

It was by far the easiest of Andover's three victories over Methuen this season, the other two 61-60 in the Christmas Tournament title game and 45-42 at Andover.

The wins over Dracut and Methuen were the 25th and 26th straight in MVC play, boosting the locals to 11-0 in the league and 14-2 overall.

Nine of the 14 victories have been by margins of eight points or less, including two in overtime.

The Golden Warriors entered this week's play with a five-game winning streak, a two-game lead over Large School co-runnersup Lowell and Haverhill, and a three-game lead over Methuen.

Andover played at Haverhill, the other "hottest team in the league," earlier this week and tomorrow night (7:45 p.m.) hosts dangerous Central Catholic which carried AHS into double overtime (68-61) earlier this season.

A pair of victories this week would clinch at least a share of the division title, and if Lowell were to lose the Warriors would wrap up the crown outright.

The regular season concludes next week when Lowell comes to town Tuesday night and Andover travels to Chelmsford on Thursday (both 7:45).

"How about 30-0?" said Coach Fazio prior to the Haverhill game. "Back-to-back undefeated seasons in the league. It sure sounds nice and that's what we were aiming for."

Scoring leaders

Captain Kirk Stockwood and Eric Danis remain the Golden Warriors' top 1-2 punch with 283 and 248 points respectively.

Junior center Matt Gibson, who missed the Dracut game with bronchitis, has 195 points and junior guard Tom Tanin 127.

Andover 71

Methuen 63

"This group of kids is amazing," said Coach Fazio. "They continue to come up with the big plays and the big games when we need them."

Andover led Methuen, which fell to 12-4 with three of the losses to AHS, by six at the half (30-24) and then blew it wide open in the first 10 minutes of the second half.

"We came out and beat the heck out of them early in the game," said Coach Fazio, lauding the early work of co-stars Kirk Stockwood (two quick three-pointers) and Eric Danis. "Offensively we executed almost to perfection for 26 of the 32 minutes."

"Defensively we played a tight man-to-man. We gave Methuen the option to shoot outside, but they refused to take it. We also took (6-7 center John) Feugill out of the game and beat them in the paint."

Leading by six at the break, the Golden Warriors again came out smoking as lefty shooter Matt Gibson scored the first six points of the second half to send the locals on their way.

Andover opened the lead to an improbable 19 points with six minutes to play.

"We got ourselves in a 'Catch 22' situation," said Coach Fazio. "We wanted to use the clock but at the same time we wanted to run our offense."

Methuen chipped away and cut its deficit to six points with 1:13 to play, but Kirk Stockwood and Eric Danis were deadly from the free throw line down the stretch for AHS to preserve the victory.

Andover finished the game 28-for-37 at the line, Stockwood knocking down 11-of-12 and Danis 11-of-13.

Stockwood led all scorers with 24 points, and he also dished out seven assists, while Danis added 19 points, 10 rebounds and Gibson 14 points, eight boards after his one-game absence.

Senior guard Frank Paone hit 5-of-7 at the foul line, while Tom Tanin contributed four late-game points on two big offensive rebounds and he also did yeoman defensive work (three blocked shots) against Methuen's tireless Bob Ruggiero.

Junior forward Cris Brown had three points and four rebounds, while Eric Thompson tossed in two points and played an outstanding floor game.

Brothers Bob and sophomore Mark Ruggiero paced Methuen with 19 points each.

The Rangers finished with a 23-20 edge in field goals, and were even 3-3 in trifectas, but Methuen converted only 14-of-24 free throws.

Andover 42

Dracut 36

With Matt Gibson and Frank Paone (strained shoulder) on the sidelines, Methuen looming on the horizon, and Dracut a struggling 2-9 entering the game, the Golden Warriors came dangerously close to stumbling.

Veteran Coach Tom Gallagher's Mid-dies, whose patient style of play can frustrate any team, led 21-16 at the half and stayed close until the final buzzer.

"The only good thing to come out of this game was the victory," said Coach Fazio.

"We took the win and ran."

"Our guys just didn't come to play. I have to believe they were looking ahead to Methuen, and not having Gibby and Paone made it tougher."

"Nobody was happy when it was over. The whole performance left a bad taste in our mouths, but somehow we found a way to get the W."

"We've been lucky this year that our injuries have come when we were facing lesser opponents, and our illnesses (Stockwood versus Lowell) were given an extra day to heal because of the weather," noted Coach Fazio.

In any championship season a little luck is always needed and appreciated.

Eric Danis paced the offense against Dracut with 19 points, while Kirk Stockwood added 15, Eric Thompson three, Cris Brown two, Tom Tanin a pair of free throws and junior forward Steve Muench one foul shot.

Both teams finished with 14 field goals, but Andover held an 11-6 edge at the line and a 3-2 advantage in trifectas as Stockwood nailed three more (36 for season).

Ski teams wrap up season; boys head to state meet

The Andover High girls ski team wrapped up its 1994 North Shore League season with three straight victories over Methuen, North Andover and Bishop Fenwick of Peabody in dual and tri-meet activity at Bradford Hill.

Those wins enabled the Lady Warrior alpiners to nail down third place in the final league standings for the third straight year.

Andover finished at 6-4 overall, winning its first three meets, losing the next four (twice each to Masconomet Regional and Haverhill) and closing with three more victories.

Masconomet Regional won the North Shore girls title with a 9-1 record and Haverhill was second at 8-2.

Those two teams, along with the undefeated NSL champion Andover (14-0) and runner-up Masconomet (12-2) boys squads, will represent the league at the All-State Championships at Berkshire East in Charlmont on Wednesday, March 2.

For the third straight year the AHS girls barely missed qualifying for the states, with three of their four losses by 17 points or less.

The AHS boys title was the second straight and third in 10 years for Coach Dick Stevens.

The AHS boys title was the second straight and third in 10 years for Coach Dick Stevens. It is also the first outright championship as the Golden Warriors shared the crown with St. John's Prep last year and in 1985.

Boys gym team is ranked third in state

By Rick Harrison

Juniors Bob Ellis and Scott Nicholson were individual event winners as the Andover High boys gymnastics team, ranked number 3 in the state, chalked up its highest score in 15 years en route to a split of a tri-meet against powerhouse Salem, N.H. High and North Shore League foe Lincoln-Sudbury at the Dunn gymnasium.

Coach Steve Sirois' Golden Warriors, the largest team in the state, surpassed 100 points for the fourth straight meet en route to an impressive 109.70 total.

Salem swept the meet with 116.10 points and L-S was a distant third with 79.30.

Andover also bested Revere 104.30 to 92.50 in a recent dual meet makeup.

The young and rapidly-improving AHS squad moved its overall record to 3-5-0, including 3-1-0 in the league where the locals appear destined to finish second to undefeated powerhouse Burlington High.

Salem improved to 6-1-0 in New Hampshire while Lincoln-Sudbury remained winless at 0-6-0.

Andover, averaging 105.475 for its last five meets, is third in the latest Eastern Massachusetts boys gymnastics ratings and trails only top-ranked Burlington and No. 2 Braintree High.

Schedule

Andover wraps up the regular season with its participation in the five-team Salem, N.H. Invitational.

AHS will compete against Newton South in a dual meet makeup as part of the Invitational, while other teams involved are Londonderry, N.H., Newton North and host Salem.

Andover hosted the annual North Shore League Championship Meet earlier this week at the Dunn gymnasium.

Defending champ Burlington was avored to repeat, with last year's runner-up Andover again expected to provide the stiffest opposition.

The 1993-94 season concludes tomorrow with the State Championship Meet at Burlington High, which brings together the top five teams in Massachusetts.

"Next year I believe we have a good chance to win the State title," said Coach Sirois. "All the best club gymnasts on the other teams (Andover has none) are graduating seniors, and everyone is saying watch out for Andover and Revere next year. We have the top young talent."

Salem, N.H. 116.10

Andover 109.70

Lincoln-Sudbury 79.30

Bob Ellis remained undefeated in vaulting competition this season with an first-place 8.8 score, just below his personal-best 8.9, and his 34.20 all-around total was a season-high.

Ellis also finished third in floor exercise (6.8), scored a surprising 6.2 on rings and a 5.1 on the parallel bars.

Scott Nicholson placed first in his specialty, the rings, for the fifth time this season with a personal-best 7.7 score.

Golden Warrior third-place finishers, in addition to Ellis, were senior Justin Pierce on the parallel bars (5.7), and senior Captain Jeff Feinberg on the pommel horse (5.3).

Junior Jeff Arsenault scored 7.7 in vaulting, an event Andover has not lost all season, 6.8 in floor and 4.5 on high bar.

Senior Scott Gray produced a solid 7.8 score in vaulting, and a 5.5 as Andover's top man in his first competition on the high bar.

Junior Barry Dubois registered a 5.7 on rings and a 4.5 on high bar, while other top individual performances came from senior Nick Zamuto in floor exercise (6.8), freshman Wilson Mann (4.8) and senior Joe Shea (4.7) on pommel horse, and Captain Matt Fenton on parallel bars (5.3).

Another pleasant surprise was freshman Zach Gray's 6.0 in floor exercise.

Ironically the all-around winner was Jeremy Wojtkun of Salem, who is a nephew of several former Andover High boys gymnastics standouts from the mid-1960's and 1970's.

"There was a clan of four or five brothers who were all strong gymnasts at Andover, and Jeremy is related," confirmed Coach Sirois.

The Blue Devils' star scored 44.60 and placed first in four events including floor (7.1), pommel horse (8.2), high bar (7.4) and parallel bars (6.7).

Andover 104.30

Revere 92.50

The Golden Warriors placed first in five of the six events, with Bob Ellis and Jeff Arsenault the top performers, as the locals topped 100 points for the fifth consecutive meet.

Ellis won the high bar competition (4.5), tied with teammate Arsenault for first place in floor exercise (both 7.1), took second place in vaulting and was the all-around champ for the meet with a 33.2 total.

Jeff Feinberg and Joe Shea tied for first on the pommel horse with identical 5.3 scores. Arsenault was tops in vaulting with a 7.9 and Scott Nicholson captured the rings once again with a 7.6.

Consistent Matt Fenton registered a trio of second place finishes on the high bar, parallel bars and rings.

Justin Pierce placed third on the parallel bars and Barry Dubois third on rings.

Girls basketball team comes from behind, beats Dracut 36-32

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High girls basketball team remained third in the Large School Division of the Merrimack Valley Conference, registering a come-from-behind 36-32 victory over Dracut before feeling Methuen's wrath for the second time this season when the Rangers pounded out a 70-39 win.

The split left the Lady Warriors at 7-5 in league play, and 7-11 overall including six non-league losses.

Coach George Sullivan's club, which graduates just one senior and has seen rapid late-season improvement by several underclassmen including freshmen six-footers Sue Tully and Kristen Wysocki, was scheduled to wrap up its 1993-94 campaign this week.

The Andover girls, who did not qualify for the Eastern Mass. Tournament, met Haverhill (16-1) earlier this week and have a non-league finale tomorrow night at North Reading (7:30 p.m. varsity tipoff).

Scoring leaders

The balanced scoring attack was led by Captain Rachel Buonopane with 140 points through 18 games.

Leah Mason was close behind with 132. Sue Tully and Katie Jurdi had 81 each, and Amanda Verreault 80.

Andover 36

Dracut 32

In winning 36-32 for the second time in seven days, the Lady Warriors made it three victories in four games.

It marked the sixth time this season Andover has held an opponent to 40 points or less, but it was also the 11th straight game and 14th time AHS fell short of 40 points.

Dracut, missing top scorer Michelle Sylvester, led 15-11 at the half before the Lady Warriors got untracked after the break.

Junior forward Leah Mason netted all 10 of her team-high points in the second half to spark the attack.

Senior guard Rachel Buonopane added eight points for the winners, who opened a 32-20 lead at one juncture late in the game, while Sue Tully contributed seven points, Kristen Wysocki four, sophomore guard Sue Cookson four points and aggressive defense, and sophomore guard Meghan Lynch three free throws.

Carrie Ladebauche was game-high scorer for Dracut with 16 points.

Methuen 70
Andover 39

The Lady Warriors never recovered from the first half, yielding more points in 16 minutes than they usually do in a game as the Rangers (9-1 MVC, 14-2 overall) rolled out to a commanding 50-22 lead.

The home team netted just 20 points after the break but surrendered only 17 more to Andover.

The 70 points were the most allowed by AHS this season, eclipsing the previous highs of 66 by Haverhill and 64 in Methuen's 64-34 triumph the first time around.

Kristen Wysocki paced the Andover offense with a personal single-game season-high 12 points.

Rachel Buonopane tossed in seven points, Leah Mason and Sue Tully six each, sophomore forward Jen Aylward two free throws, and single field goals were added by Sue Cookson, junior forward Beth Cummins and sophomore guard Katie Jurdi.

The mighty Rangers had three in double figures as sophomore 6-2 forward Jamie Cassidy pocketed a game-high 19 points, Kelly Kineen 11 and Erin Stewart 10.

Andover JVs, freshmen

The AHS junior varsity and frosh made it a clean sweep over Dracut.

Coach Kathy McDermott's JVs won, 32-29, as Susan Ashlock netted 13 points, Allyson Ahern added nine and defensive standouts included Elaine Licata and Tamika Jones.

Coach Jay Darrin's freshmen squad blasted Dracut, 45-25, as Allison Daher poured through 23 points to almost outscore the Middles by herself.

Ann Marie Paone contributed eight points, and defensively the plaudits went to Alexa Kokinos and Stephanie Banos.

Two runners spark AHS track team to second place at meet

By Rick Harrison

First place finishes by the Andover High tandem of sophomore miler Charlie Russo and senior middle distance ace Sarah Witman, both of whom have been virtually unbeatable all winter, sparked the Golden Warriors' track team to an impressive second place in the combined team standings at the annual Northern Area Championship Meet hosted by Lowell High.

The AHS boys were second to Central Catholic in their division, scoring 43 points, while the Lady Warriors added 32 points en route to fourth place in their division. The combined total of 75 points placed Andover runner-up to overall champ Lowell which ran away from the 18-school field with 104 points.

The solid performance in the Northern Area followed season-ending Merrimack Valley Conference dual meet losses to Lowell, the boys bowing 52-34 and the girls dropping a 51-35 decision to the undefeated league champs from LHS.

The Andover boys finished the regular campaign with a 5-4-0 overall dual meet record, including 2-3-0 in the MVC Large School Division.

The girls checked out at 3-5-1 overall including 1-4-0 in the MVC Large.

Tomorrow night at Harvard University (6 p.m.) both Andover squads will compete in the Eastern Mass. Class A Meet. It will be the Warriors' first appearance in Class A in several years, with enrollment changes bumping them up from Class B.

Top athletes tomorrow will qualify for the State All-Class Meet on Sunday, Feb. 27 at Boston University (12 noon).

The New England Championships are scheduled for Saturday, March 12 at Harvard (11 a.m.).

Lavoie mending

Ace senior hurdler and team Captain Stacey Lavoie is making excellent progress as she recovers from hip and leg injuries suffered when she struck the first hurdle in a recent race.

"Stacey is doing fine but we've decided to call it a (indoor) season for her," said Coach Art Tworsley. "She could probably run at the Class

The Level 6 team beat teams from Pennsylvania and Arizona to win the first-place trophy.

Kerri Krivelow, 12, of Andover won the first-place medal in the all-around with a 34.9, a first-place medal on floor exercise (9.15) and second-place medal on balance beam (8.8). Kristin Kearins, 11, also of Andover, won the second-place medal in the all-around (33.95) and on the uneven bars (8.65). Brianne Camilleri, 11, a student at St. Augustine School, won the third-place medal on balance beam (8.55). Caitlin Neri of Andover competed in Level 5.

PA TIDBITS

Becky Dowling became the first basketball player, boy or girl, to surpass the 1,000 point mark. She notched 15 points in Phillips Academy's 57-40 victory over Phillips Exeter and scored her 1,000th point on a fast break layup late in the second half. Laurie Coffey had 21 points and 15 rebounds and shined defensively with steals.

Becky scored a career-high 38 points against St. Paul's. She recorded a rare triple-double with 38 points, 15 rebounds and 10 steals as her team won 74-36. Coffey and Molly Bell were offensive powers. The team's record is 10-0.

The boy's hockey team posted a win against Kimball Union Academy last Wednesday. In the last three years Phillips has gone into overtime with K.U.A. only to come out the loser. But this year, sophomore Bobby Moss notched the game-winner two and a half minutes into sudden death OT to earn the 4-2 victory. This was his second goal of the game. Capt. Henry Higdon also notched two goals. The team then dropped a 6-2 decision to Belmont Hill over the weekend. Moss and Higdon tallied two goals. Judd Brackett played particularly well in net with 24 saves. The team's record is 15-6 with six games left in the season.

The boys basketball team earned two wins this past week to improve their record 10-5. Andover native Todd Harris hit four three-pointers on his way to 18 points in the 75-61 win against Thayer Academy. He also had seven assists and four steals. Walter Brown, a 6'6" postgraduate, had 21 points and 10 rebounds. Brown led all scorers with 31 points earlier in the week in a 103-67 win against Kimball Union. He also had nine rebounds. Senior Eric Arias also scored points.

The boys and girls swim teams captured two wins each this past week. Margaret Welles won the 200 freestyle and 100 backstroke in the 113-73 win against Northfield Mount Hermon. Andover native Kealy O'Connor earned first place in the 100 butterfly and 200 freestyle and led the 200 and 400 freestyle relays to first-place finishes in the meet against Worcester. The girls record is 5-2.

Josh Oberwetter and Danai Kuangparichat captured eight first-place finishes and swam in six winning relay teams. The boys record improved to 4-3.

In girls hockey, junior Ali Coughlin tallied the only goal in a 7-1 loss to Tabor Academy. The girls then lost 5-4 in sudden death overtime to Northfield Mount Hermon. Coughlin and captain Nicole Rhodes had two goals each.

Dan Dizazzo, J.B. Lockhart, Brian Stark, John Fawcett and Doug Perkowski pinned their opponents in a pair of meets over the weekend to improve the wrestling team's record to 7-6.

Meet but, although it may be a pessimistic look at the situation, we don't want to risk a quick return and more serious injury that could jeopardize her future.

"Stacey has agreed with me that she should give the leg a long rest and then prepare for the outdoor season in the spring," added Coach Iworsley.

Miss Lavole is the reigning New England indoor and outdoor champ in the 50-yard and 110-meter hurdles, and the Andover school record holder in both events.

Northern Area Meet
This year's effort came close to duplicating the performance of the 1991-92 Andover teams at the Northern Area. Two years ago the boys placed first, the girls were second and Andover won the combined championship.

Last year injuries and illness left the AHS track teams depleted for this meet.

Charlie Russo won yet another mile race with a 4:41.2 clocking to spark the boys to their second place finish behind undefeated MVC dual meet power Central Catholic (10-0-0).

Russo also ran a leg on the mile relay team that finished second to Tewksbury, AHS winning its heat and beating Central as the underclass quartet of sophomore Josh Hatch, Russo, junior Jon Hall and junior Kevin Shepard clocked a season-best 3:45.3.

Other individual second places went to Hall with a personal-best 6'2" leap in the high jump, and junior Matt Ely who ran the 1000 in 2:29.8.

The Golden Warriors' fourth runner-up was the two-mile relay foursome of junior Mark Adams, senior Chris Stamm, freshman Matt Herling and senior Rick Crispo who crossed in 8:53.4.

The final point for the boys came from Shepard who ran 1:23.2 in the 600 for sixth place.

Sarah Witman remained perfect in the girls 600 this winter, winning the Northern Area title with a 1:34.6 clocking.

She also anchored the second place mile relay crew that ran a season-best 4:36.0, the first three legs covered by junior Julie Rozopoulos, freshman Abby Clarke and freshman sister Samantha Witman.

Sophomore Erin Collins was third in the mile run with a personal-best 5:48.1.

The two-mile relay team of freshman Kolleen Cronin, senior Captain Leigh Clarke, sister Abby Clarke and Jen Munroe was fourth in 10:57.4.

Junior Jamie Barron finished fifth (6.4) and sophomore Randi Spiegel sixth (6.5) in the 50 dash, and Samantha Witman was sixth in the 440 dash (67.8).

Senior Valerie Gould barely missed scoring in the 600, placing seventh in 1:44.4, and junior Amy Levesque had her chance in the 300 dash wiped out when she was accidentally tripped up from behind. Miss Levesque was shaken by the incident but not injured.

Andover placed fourth in the team standings behind Lowell, Masconomet Regional and Beverly.

The only major school that chose not to participate in the meet was Chelmsford.

Lowell 51.

Andover girls 35

The Lady Warriors managed first place in only three of the 10 events against unbeaten Lowell (8-0-0), but still could have won the meet 44-42 with a sweep of the shot put and a victory in the mile relay.

Andover won the relay but instead was swept by Lowell in the shot.

The locals were ravaged by the flu bug. Several girls competed although ill, and unable to attend were potential scorers Kolleen Cronin (1000) and sophomore Ellen Buckley (mile).

The lone individual winners were undefeated Sarah Witman in to 600 run (1:33.2) and Erin Collins in the mile (5:55.8).

The victorious relay team consisted of Samantha Witman, Sarah Witman, junior Rebecca Goldenberg and Abby Clarke (4:51.1).

Andover, which was also swept in the two-mile, had four 2-3 finishes by sophomore Carroll Cunningham (8.1) and Miss Goldenberg (8.4) in the hurdles, Jamie Barron (6.5) and sophomore Laura Burkle (6.5) in the 50, Kim Young (42.4) and Amy Levesque (42.6) in the 300, sophomore Christine Contos (4'6") and Miss Goldenberg (4'4") in the high jump.

Abby Clarke added a second place in the 1000 run (3:08.0) and Valerie Gould was third in the 600 run (1:43.3).

Lowell 52

Andover boys 34

The Golden Warriors trailed 40-5 halfway through the meet, but rallied in the final five events for a 29-12 edge to make it respectable.

In fact, a sweep of the high jump and a victory in the mile relay would have completed an improbable comeback for a 44-42 victory. But Lowell went 2-3 in the high jump and won the relay to clinch the triumph.

The AHS surge began with a 1-2 finish in the 600 by Kevin Shepard (1:22.2) and junior Greg Foltz (1:24.5). The locals barely missed a sweep when Matt Herling crossed in 1:25.4 and was nipped for third place.

Matt Ely and Rick Crispo kept things going in the 1000, which had no times recorded because the lap-counter miscalculated and the race finished one lap short.

Charlie Russo won the mile in 4:43.0 and Jon Hall cleared 6'0" in the high jump, but it wasn't enough.

Sophomore Mike Shaughnessy was second in the hurdles (7.1). Josh Hatch took third in the 300 dash (36.8) and Leo Blais was third in the deuce (11:09.7).

Mark Adams ran a 4:59.1 mile and senior Joe Kelley, although he didn't place, cleared a career personal-best 5'4" in the high jump.

Lowell's big early lead was built on sweeps of the 50 dash and 1-2 finishes in the 300 and two-mile. The Red Raiders also swept the shot put competition.

(Earlier Meets)

Andover boys 51

North Andover 35

The Golden Warrior boys placed first in seven of the 10 events, and 2-3 in two others, to key the MVC Large School dual meet triumph over neighbor North Andover at the Methuen High Field House.

Remaining undefeated in all dual meet races were surprising Kevin Shepard, who clocked 1:22.5 in the 600 yard run, and Charlie Russo who won the mile in 4:49.1.

Other individual victors were sophomore Mike Shaughnessy in the 50-yard hurdles (7.0), junior Matt Ely in the 1000 yard run (2:28.5), Max Dawson in the deuce (10:39.5) and junior high jumper Jon Hall (5'11").

Hall also cleared 6'1" in the State Coaches Invitational at Harvard recently, placing seventh on misses.

Andover's final victory versus the Scarlet Knights came from the mile relay team of Josh Hatch, junior Max Soong, Shepard and Ely who crossed in 3:51.9.

Second places were earned by sprinters Mike Marcinonis in the 50-yard dash (5.8), Hatch in the 300 dash (36.5), Rick Crispo in the 1000 run (2:30.6) and miler Mark Adams (4:54.1).

Completing the pointscorers with thirds were junior hurdler Tom Gardner (7.1), Alex Dalis in the 50 dash (5.8), Max Soong whose 37.2 in the 300 was a personal-best by a full half-second, and freshman Matt Herling whose 1:26.8 nosed out junior teammate Greg Foltz in the 600.

North Andover swept the shot put competition.

North Andover 56

Andover girls 30

The Lady Warriors managed just three first-place finishes, led by Sarah Witman who remained unbeaten in all individual races this season with a 1:36.0 in the 600 yard run.

Jamie Barron won the 50-yard dash (6.4), and the mile relay quartet of Julie Rozopoulos, Abby Clarke, Samantha Witman and anchor Sarah Witman crossed in 4:37.8.

Second places went to Randi Spiegel in the 50 dash (6.4), Abby Clarke in the 1000 run (3:06.3), Erin Collins with an indoor/outdoor personal-best 5:49.9 in the mile, and Carroll Cunningham in the shot put (27'7").

Earning third places were 50-yard hurdler Rebecca Goldenberg (8.1), Kolleen Cronin in the 1000 run (3:06.9) and senior miler Sarah Goldin (6:12.2).

Jen Munroe was fourth in the two-mile with a personal-best 13:09.6, while Amy Levesque placed fourth in the shot put (24'3").

North Andover outscored the Lady Warriors 27-0 in three events, sweeping the high jump, two-mile and 300 dash.

Coach Iworsley called the unexpected NA sweep of the 300 "the killer."

Individual event winners were Missy Perritano on bars (9.15) and Renee Sestito in floor (9.35), vaulting (9.3) and on beam (9.25).

Finishing third in the all-around was Becky Harris of Chelmsford (34.55) and fourth went to Jamie Lane of Methuen (34.20).

Rouillard, Cincotta compete

Also competing on beam for Andover were senior Captain Stacy Thresher (10th place, 8.05) and freshman standout Katie Rouillard (11th, 7.95).

Joining Miss Shui in floor exercise were Katie Rouillard (tie for 10th, 8.5) and junior Lisa Cincotta (tie for 13th, 8.2).

Other AHS vaulters were sophomore Missy Famiglietti (15th, 7.75) and Lisa Cincotta (16th, 7.7).

Lady Warriors competing on the uneven bars were junior Eveline Yang (9th, 7.5) and freshman Nicole Carpentier (14th, 6.95).

There were 27 girls competing in each event, three from each of the nine league teams.

AHS hockey team has berth in division tourney despite recent losses

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High hockey team lost twice to a pair of quality opponents last week, eliminating the Golden Warriors from the Merrimack Valley Conference Small School Division race.

But they still managed to nail down a berth in the upcoming Eastern Mass. Division Tournament.

AHS, which skates only three seniors regularly, was beaten 7-2 by Small School champ Tewksbury and 5-4 by Large School Division co-leader Chelmsford in away games at the Janas Rink in Lowell and Tyngsboro Skate 3.

The Tewksbury game was close until the final period, when Andover uncharacteristically wilted and yielded four goals.

The Chelmsford contest unfolded much differently, as the Lions forged leads of 3-0 and 5-2 before Andover rallied in the closing minutes of the third period to almost pull it out.

The losses left Coach Bill Cullen's young squad at 9-5-2 overall, including 5-4-2 in the league, and they have nailed down a fifth straight tourney berth by clinching second place in the Small School Division.

They can also qualify mathematically by collecting four points in their final four games.

Andover's last home game is tonight against Lowell (7-9-1) at Merrimack College, and the regular season concludes with an MVC makeup at Wilmington and non-league road games at Canton (Saturday, 6 p.m.) and Winthrop (next Tuesday, 2:45 p.m.).

Scoring leaders

Sophomore wing Chris Cullen and junior wing Scott Sullivan led the AHS scoring parade after 16 games, Cullen with a team-high 19 goals, 10 assists for 29 points and Sullivan with 12 goals and a team-high 17 assists for 29 points.

AHS hockey team has berth in division tourney despite recent losses

The Andover pair's chances of winning the Small School Division scoring title are now slim, with overall league-leading scorers Brian Gangemi (21-17-38) and Don Bibb (21-17-38) of Tewksbury owning a healthy advantage.

Senior center Bob Daley is Andover's third high scorer with 8-9-17 points, followed by Dana DiFiore at 6-10-16, Todd Thistle 9-6-15, Marc Escott 4-10-14 and Jeff Hesenius 3-10-13.

Tewksbury 7 Andover 2

The Redmen (12-4-1), who needed a pair of third-period goals to edge Andover 2-0 earlier this season, were locked in a 3-2 struggle before netting four goals in the final 9:26 on home ice.

Don Bibb blasted a slapshot into the AHS cage just 21 seconds after the opening faceoff to give Tewksbury a quick 1-0 lead.

That's how it stayed until the 6:12 mark of the second period, when Bob Daley tied it for Andover with the assist to junior wing Todd Thistle.

Bibb put the Redmen back in front two minutes later, but AHS senior center Marc Escott retaliated 85 seconds after that with a beautiful shorthanded connection to make it 2-2. Thistle once again was the set-up man.

Bibb completed his hat trick with a power play goal at 13:06 of the middle stanza, giving Tewksbury a lead it never again relinquished.

The third period belonged to the Redmen, who outshot Andover 19-7 and broke away on single goals by Jim Hebert (5:34), Peter Butt (8:21), Brian Gangemi (10:56) and Jarrod Gennetti (11:27).

AHS had no answer for the explosion. Golden Warriors' junior goaltender Jason Velleux was credited with 39 saves, while Tewksbury's Brian Coyle made 15 stops, as the Redmen outshot Andover 46-17. Chelmsford 5
Andover 4

AHS, in its only game against Chelmsford (12-4-0) this season, met a sizzling Lions' squad that was chalking up its fifth straight victory.

The host team took a 2-0 first-period lead on late goals by Mark Jenkins (10:49) and Rich DeCaprio (power play at 13:36).

An unassisted score by Jenkins at 2:01 of the middle stanza put Andover in a three-goal hole, but the locals began digging out furiously on rapid-fire goals 47 seconds apart by Chris Cullen and Marc Escott.

Sophomore defenseman Jeff Hesenius set up Cullen's 19th goal, while Todd Thistle assisted on Escott's to suddenly close the deficit to 3-2.

The Lions regrouped and regained their three-goal cushion after scores by Jackie Holmes (power play) and Eric Ryan in the first six minutes of the final period.

Freshman wing Albert Kwon delivered an unassisted goal 29 seconds after Ryan's tally, and it remained 5-3 heading into the final minute of play.

Coach Cullen lifted junior goalie Peter Afarian for an extra skater with just over one minute remaining, and Dana DiFiore made the move pay off with a goal at 14:21 assisted by sophomore rearguard Brian Kwon.

The Golden Warriors continued to press for the equalizer in the final 39 seconds, the best opportunities coming after a faceoff in the Chelmsford zone with 18 seconds to play.

Chelmsford goaltender Kirk Bishop made the saves, however, and the game ended a short time later with Lions' wing John Sheehy hitting the post on the empty Andover net with a breakaway shot.

Chelmsford finished with a 45-24 shooting edge, Afarian making 40 saves and Bishop 20.

(Earlier Games)

Andover 6 Haverhill 6

The Hillies, trailing 6-4 after an empty-net goal by Bob Daley with just 39 seconds to play, forged the improbable tie on clutch tallies by Adam Hackett with nine seconds left (14:51) and Joe Arcidiacono with three seconds remaining (14:57).

The game started well for Andover, which grabbed a 2-0 first-period lead when sophomore defenseman Jeff Mazza scored his first goal of the season just 24 seconds after the opening faceoff and sophomore defenseman Brian Kwon added his first varsity goal at 12:16.

Mazza blasted home a 45-foot slapshot after Daley won a faceoff draw, and Kwon scored in much the same manner with assists to Scott Sullivan and junior wing Dana DiFiore.

Haverhill (6-7-1) battled back to a 3-3 tie in the second period, two goals by Tony Thomas and one from Arcidiacono offsetting DiFiore's tally at the 3:41 mark.

Brian Kwon and Sullivan set up the Andover goal, which was scored when DiFiore found himself alone with the puck in the slot. He faked a backhand before slipping a shot past Hillies' goaltender Mike Buckley.

Chris Cullen put the Warriors back on top 4-3 at 4:58 of the final period, skating through the middle and snapping a quick wrist from his off wing to the short side. Sullivan and junior wing Todd Thistle assisted.

Tony Thomas completed a hat trick and tied it again just 18 seconds later, but 26 seconds after that Thistle pocketed his ninth goal of the season for AHS with setups to senior forward Marc Escott and Daley.

It remained 5-4 until Haverhill Coach Dennis Barrette pulled Buckley for an extra skater with 1:19 left, and 40 seconds later Daley responded with his empty-netter assisted by Cullen and Paul Allard.

However, the never-say-die Hillies' Adam Hackett rifled a shot home at 14:51 for a 6-5 score.

St. Robert's A clinches ACBL Girls Senior championship

St. Robert's A clinched the Andover Church Basketball League girls Senior Division championship with a 24-14 victory over St. Robert's B and a come-from-behind 17-14 triumph over St. Augustine A in recent season-ending action at Andover High.

The two victories enabled SRA to break away from a field of teams that had been tightly-bunched all season.

St. Robert's A finished 6-3 overall, one game ahead of fast-finishing runnerup St. Augustine B (5-4).

In other final round play, St. Augustine B split two games as it trimmed St. Robert's B 18-5 and dropped a 19-11 decision to St. Augustine A.

St. Robert's B was third in the standings at 4-5 and St. Augustine A closed at 3-6.

Scoring race

Jenna Hartwell of SRA won the girls Senior Division individual scoring championship with 60 points, while Kelly Walsh of St. Augustine B was runner-up with 54.

Kerry Ford of St. Robert's B was a distant third with 36 points.

AHS has berth in division tourney

On the ensuing face-off the two center ice-men became tangled up with the referee and all three fell to the ice. Another Andover player tripped over the pile as Arcidiacono entered the Andover zone 1-on-1 with an AHS defenseman, flipping home the 25-foot tying goal from the left faceoff circle.

"We played well," said Coach Cullen. "Haverhill is a good team, much better than its record."

The two teams met earlier in the season with the Golden Warriors pulling out a 4-3 win.

Andover finished with a 38-24 shooting edge, junior Jason Veilleux making 18 saves for the locals and Buckley finishing with 32 for Haverhill.

Andover 4 Wilmington 0

The injury to Paul Allard put a damper on this win at Merrimack College, which wasn't assured until the Golden Warriors registered a pair of goals in the final minute.

Jason Veilleux made 18 saves en route to his second shutout and the team's third of the season.

It was the second straight shutout loss for the low-scoring Wildcats.

Sophomore defense

man Jeff Mazza put Andover ahead with his second goal in two games, and second of the season, at 1:07 of the first period. Dana DiFiore assisted.

Sophomore center Ed Seero made it 2-0 at 12:29 of the middle stanza, his fourth goal set up by twin freshman wings Al and Robert Kwon.

It remained that way until Chris Cullen netted No. 18 of the season at 14:00 of the third period, a shorthanded connection assisted by Marc Escott, and Brian Kwon followed with his second in two games at 14:37 from Mazza.

Wilmington freshman goaltender Jason Dango was sharp with 28 saves as Andover outshot the Cats, 32-16, including 13-3 in the second period and 11-4 in the third.

Bill Cullen coached at Wilmington for 14 seasons, leading his teams to two division championships and 11 tournament appearances, before shifting to his hometown of Andover three years ago.

Bancroft . . .

If instituted across the board at the elementary level, parents would most likely be able to choose to move their children into a less crowded classroom in another school, as long as they provided the transportation themselves.

"I think it's the perfect solution because it's voluntary and it can work," said Ms. Silberstein. "Shawsheen School is the perfect example."

Ms. Silberstein and Bill Josephson, co-chairman of the task force, say the task force supports open enrollment as a Band-Aid solution for the time between now and when 141 seats will be added to South Elementary if approved at Town Meeting.

However, the School Committee does not appear to support the idea.

At the Feb. 1 School Committee meeting, Superintendent Mark McQuillan discussed the need for a system-wide policy for intra-district open-enrollment. After brief discussion, the committee neither made a motion, nor advised Dr. McQuillan to further pursue it. Four of the five members have referred to this form of open enrollment, a policy that would only be in place for one or two years, as an administrative or logistical nightmare.

"I just don't see how they could have killed it like that," said Ms. Silberstein. "So it isn't going to die."

Since then, she said, members of the overcrowding task force have been contacted and will continue to contact School Committee members to discuss it.

Dr. McQuillan, having discussed the matter with Chairwoman Susan Dal-

"It's amazing how little spaces that look like closets are working rooms," said Pat Donelan, a task force member.

ton, has continued to analyze the matter to present more detailed information.

"If it will help ease overcrowding, we have to do the analysis," said Dr. McQuillan.

"We didn't have any information in front of us that would have said to us we have space," said Ms. Dalton. "We should be discussing open enrollment if there are spaces to move into, but if there are not, it becomes kind of a defeated discussion before you start."

Ms. Silberstein said there is system-wide overcrowding, but within the same grade there may be available space at different schools. For instance, the average size of a Bancroft third grade is more than 28 students per teacher; the average at South is 22.5.

But a decision to go with open enrollment would likely rely on June estimations for the next year.

"What you may see as a projection of the ratio in June may not be the real number. We have a lot of people who move in and out," said Susan Jenkins, committee member. She said that in 1987, 20 students moved into the West Elementary third grade, playing havoc with the ratios there.

Secretary Bill Huston is not sure how the school department would choose which volunteering students will be allowed to take part in open enrollment. He also wonders what would happen to students who opt for the program if after one year a redistricting plan is implemented. He said the committee would have to determine whether they would go to the school in their new district or stay in the one from the previous year.

If the school building project and the debt exclusion override are passed by the town, the school system will be redistricted.

"We've fully supported the building plan. There's no question. But even if you assume it's adequate to meet Bancroft's needs," said Ms. Silberstein, "what do we do for the next two years? Open enrollment can work there. We've proven that it can work."

Although overcrowding is a problem for every school in the system except Shawsheen, members of the overcrowding task force say it is a particular problem at Bancroft because of its design. Bancroft has an open school with lofts to contain each of the three classes for a particular grade. The media center in the middle of the school is also without walls to separate it from the rest of the school. Only the corner rooms are closed off with walls and a door. They were originally designed as spaces for loud activities or as quiet reading rooms.

"It's such a great school. It's a fabulous school," said Nina Scott, task force member. "It's so exciting for the kids that you don't want to complain too much."

"Lots of people say you either like it or you hate it when you see it," said task force member Pat Donelan.

But Ms. Scott said that when students sit in a class they often have to strain to hear their teacher.

"This task force was formed over the summer because I got so many calls from first- and third-grade parents," said Ms. Silberstein.

Answering a task-force survey, many parents said children have trouble concentrating because of noise.

"I do think it's difficult to teach and I think some of the children find it distracting. I don't think children's education is impeded. I don't think the children have suffered," said Principal Debra Dunn.

"We have more students coming in next year and there's not even more space for a teacher," said Ms. Donelan.

"Our last remaining space went to the half-time third-grade teacher," said Ms. Dunn. She said that five students from each of the four third-grade classes, whose parents volunteered, meet with the half-time teacher in that space in the afternoon. In the morning the space is used by a special-needs tutor.

Former storage areas are used for offices and student work rooms. Computer areas line the hallways for student use.

The closed corner rooms, which formerly were used as science, math labs and for reading rooms, are now used as regular classrooms. Only art and music remain in the closed corner classrooms, and music must remain there because of the noise.

"Art would be the next room to go. Our projection is for 648 (students next year) and it looks like that's a strong possibility," said Ms. Dunn.

Protect pets from needless antifreeze deaths

Little puddles of antifreeze look innocent enough to humans, but they can be fatal to cats and dogs. A new survey of veterinarians concludes that conventional antifreeze causes thousands of needless pet deaths. After rodent killer, antifreeze was the most frequently cited cause of accidental pet poisoning in the nationwide study.

Dogs and cats appear to be attracted to antifreeze because of its taste. Conventional antifreeze, however, contains ethylene glycol (EG), a toxic ingredient that can be fatal if swallowed. One teaspoon can cause a cat's death and less than two ounces is enough to kill a dog.

Two-thirds (66 percent) of the 310 veterinarians surveyed said EG antifreeze was the suspected cause of at least one pet poisoning that they had encountered in the past year. Virtually all of the veterinarians (99 percent) cited antifreeze as a cause of pet poisoning and 95 percent of them said they have alerted clients to the dangers of antifreeze.

Symptoms of conventional antifreeze poisoning may include a stumbling gait, appetite loss, and unquenchable thirst. If you know that your pet has swallowed EG antifreeze, experts recommend that you contact a veterinarian immediately for a type of treatment. Do not wait for symptoms to appear because immediate treatment is necessary. Prevention, however, is the most effective antidote.

If changing your car's antifreeze at home, wipe up and wash away spills from the garage floor or driveway and keep your pet indoors. Label and keep EG antifreeze out of pets' reach. And keep the telephone numbers of your veterinarian and poison control center near your phone.

Safe Brands Corporation of Omaha, Neb., sponsored the survey to educate consumers about the dangers of EG antifreeze. Safe Brands is the producer of Sierra, a safer, new antifreeze made from propylene glycol, instead of EG. The company is dedicated to developing environmentally safer alternatives to automotive chemicals being used today.

Many people are unaware of the dangers of EG antifreeze. Help others protect their pets from conventional antifreeze poisoning by handling and disposing of it carefully and by using a PG-based antifreeze.

MAKE THE EXPRESSWAY LIVE UP TO ITS NAME.

Whoever invented that wide-open stretch of road had a wonderful idea: multiple lanes with no stop signs, traffic lights or crosswalks.

Fortunately, the inventors of the Saab 9000 CS had an equally wonderful idea: a sports sedan expressly designed for the driver capable of extracting all the pleasure roads like these have to offer.

After all, it contains the kind of eager, fuel-injected engine that can propel you onto the expressway without anxiety.

©SAAB CARS USA. OMC/ 94310-015

Its steering system is so tactile, the car seems to be an extension of your body—enabling you to effortlessly move through turns and lane changes.

Moreover, its suspension system doesn't deny you the feedback from the road that other cars, with different priorities, so often do.

For more complete information and a test drive, stop by at your earliest convenience. And, see what it's like to treat the expressway like an express way.

Say hello to the new Neon by Plymouth

Aglow with personality, Neon by Plymouth really is a refreshing departure from the homogenized masses. And a good deal of the credit for this breakthrough, cab-forward-styled car goes to you. Neon by Plymouth has been consumer-driven right from the start.

Neon by Plymouth features an extensive inventory of safeguards, such as standard driver and front passenger air bags that deploy faster than the blink of an eye during a frontal impact at speeds of 14 miles per hour or more and antilock brakes that come standard on the Neon Sport and are available on the Highline and Base models.

The impact energy management system incorporated in all Neon by Plymouth automobiles protects the occupants on all fronts. Ultra-high strength steel side-guard front and rear door beams, plus reinforced front and rear door interlocks and body structure components minimize passenger compartment intrusion in case of a side impact. And the front and rear crumple zones systematically accordion upon impact to absorb the energy of a collision and maintain passenger cabin integrity.

Motor Trend magazine notes, "Neon's standard front buckets provide unusually comfortable support for an inexpensive car. People factors are top drawer. Instruments are plentiful and readable, and the expansive, steeply raked windshield provides a big window on the world. Room for folks is generous front and rear, especially behind room."

At the heart of every Neon by Plymouth is an all-new 2.0-liter four-cylinder engine employing a sophisticated network of 16 valves and a single overhead cam. Fuel is pumped precisely as needed through a sequential multi-port injection system, which peaks propulsion at an impressive 132 horsepower.

And since consumers demand less wear and tear on the environment, Neon by Plymouth and the Chrysler Corporation have taken up the cause and are making a concerted effort to be more "green." To that end, recyclable parts are used extensively and the air conditioning refrigerant is non-CFC.

See the new Neon by Plymouth at Clark Chrysler-Plymouth, 273 South Union St., Lawrence, or call them at 688-6053.

Automotive Magazine said the new Neon by Plymouth is "Unprecedented ... a truly international car, coming to us from - surprise, surprise - the hottest car company in the United States, Chrysler (Corporation)..." the new Neon blew our doors off." The Neon by Plymouth can be found at Clark Chrysler-Plymouth, 273 South Union St., Lawrence.

There are some places people can't go without a Passport

The Honda Passport is one of the most sure-footed and rugged Hondas ever made. And it's just what you've been waiting for: a sport/utility vehicle with all the power you need and the integrity only Honda can provide.

The Passport can take people where they have never been before. It sports an efficient multi-port fuel-injected engine and an aggressively styled shape. The sloping hood and broad stance create a distinct, commanding presence in every rearview mirror. Tinted glass, independent front double wishbone suspension and a rear-wheel anti-lock braking system make the two-wheel drive Passport DX an exceptional value.

For added value and performance, the LX utilizes a powerful 3.2-liter, V-6 engine boasting 175 horsepower. Standard features include power windows and door locks, and a choice of two-wheel or four-wheel drive.

Comfort and style await you in the Passport EX. An impressive list of features include four-wheel drive, a removable tilt-up moonroof and amenities like map lights and a leather-wrapped steering wheel. Chrome front and rear bumpers make an impression when you come and go, and rear privacy glass adds an element of seclusion.

The 1994 Honda Passport

The Passport gives a person the opportunity to choose their own path and the solid means to get them there. Back it up with the Honda name and a person couldn't ask for more. Except an open road.

To get a closer look at the 1994 Honda Passport stop by or call the Honda Barn, 260 Main St., Route 28, North Reading. Call 664-3118.

Regan Ford recently expanded and remodelled its service department. Pictured here is the new addition, which includes a waiting room and service desk.

The Taurus can be found at Regan Ford

The Ford Taurus is the number one selling car in the United States for the second consecutive year according to the staff at Regan Ford in Haverhill.

The Taurus features a standard driver's side and front passenger air bag supplemental restraint system, brake/shift interlock, and available anti-lock braking system and standard childproof rear door locks. The Ford Taurus sedan is designed to have the best-in-class interior room with greater seating capacity than most competitors. In addition, an ergonomically-designed instrument panel places all gauges within easy reach of the driver.

Regan Ford is number one in its dealership group in both Massachusetts and New Hampshire for customer satisfaction and is the top volume Ford dealer in the area served by The Eagle-Tribune newspaper.

Regan Ford has expanded and remodelled its service department to provide customers with quality assistance in the care of their vehicles. Also, three new offices and an employee lounge were part of the expansion program.

In April, Regan Ford will celebrate its 50th anniversary in the community. The original site of the business was at 65 Water St., in downtown Haverhill. For almost a quarter of a century it has been at the present location on Broadway, at the junction of routes 97 and 495.

Since 1987, the firm has been under the management of the third generation of the Regan family. The company takes pride in each and every employee's loyalty, motivation and superior workmanship. Those qualities allow us to stay competitive and provide customers with the satisfying experience of a car purchase or repair. Regan Ford looks forward to serving the area's automotive requirements with integrity, competitive pricing and excellent service.

How to get the most out of a gallon of gas

Motorists can get the most out of each gallon of gas by following a few simple conservation and maintenance measures. The following tips are presented by the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE), a non-profit group that certifies the competence of automotive technicians.

Monitor tire pressure. Underinflation wastes fuel and shortens the tires' life. Consult your owners manual for the recommended pressures. (Do-it-yourselfers, do not check the pressure when the tires are still warm from driving; let them cool down first.) Out-of-line wheels also waste fuel and shorten the tires' life. An alignment is needed if there's uneven tread wear or if the vehicle "pulls" on a flat road.

Remove excess weight. Remove unnecessary items from the vehicle. Store only essentials in the trunk. Less weight means better mileage.

Plan trips and errands. Look at your schedule and activities and try to consolidate your daily errands. Some trips may be unnecessary. Also, try to travel when traffic is light so you can avoid stop-and-go conditions.

Use windows and air conditioning wisely. Due to air resistance, your mileage should improve if you keep the windows closed at highway speeds. This is true even with the air conditioning on - assuming that the air conditioning system is in good condition. In stop-and-go traffic, turning the air conditioning off saves fuel.

Observe speed limits. Mileage decreases above 55 mph.

Drive gently. Avoid sudden accelerations and jerky stop-and-gos. Anticipate traffic patterns ahead and adjust your speed gradually. The brakes should last longer, too.

Keep your engine "tuned up." A well maintained engine operates more efficiently and will get better gas mileage.

Audi has total commitment to quality, customer satisfaction

"With a sales force like this, it's no wonder we had a record year in 1993." Park Audi, the Andovers' exclusive Audi sales and service dealer, is located at 222 Lawrence St., Lawrence. To arrange a test drive, call Park Audi at 686-9743.

As widely reported in the news media, 1993 offered more than its share of bad news in the automotive industry. Nonetheless, we at Audi are pleased to be able to deliver some very good news. Starting with our sales figures. During the past year we had record sales of over 460,000 cars worldwide.

More importantly, our U.S. sales were up by over 20 percent. How did we achieve this in a year some observers have called the toughest for car marketers in more than 30 years? The answer, of course, is in the cars themselves and Audi's total commitment to quality and customer satisfaction.

This dedication has never been more apparent than it is now. For example, consider our new car quality. J.D. Power and Associates reports that Audi ranked as the best European car line in its Initial Quality Study.

That's impressive. But it only serves to point out a larger truth. There is simply no other car like an Audi. No other marque combines our unique brand of styling with our meticulously engineered approach to handling and performance.

Which brings us to another point. At Audi, we believe a luxury car should enhance your financial control as well as your road control. Accordingly, the Audi Ownership Advantage is "one of - if not the - best customer plans in the business," as summed up by AutoWeek magazine. The centerpiece of the plan is 3 years or 50,000 miles of No-Charge Scheduled Maintenance, which includes oil changes, filters, tune-ups,

No-charge scheduled maintenance. It's more than a "bumper-to-bumper" warranty, it's a promise: You drive the car, we take care of it. Period. For three years or 50,000 miles, the Audi Advantage covers virtually everything - tune-ups, oil changes, wiper blades, brake pads, light bulbs and more.

Special lease prices on the sporty 1993 90 S and the luxurious 1993 100 S mean there's never been a better time to discover for yourself all that a lease can be.

Jeep Grand Cherokee offers wide range of four-wheel drive systems

The Jeep Grand Cherokee is rich in horsepower and torque because there is plenty of magnificent country out there, and not all of it is easy to reach.

The Jeep Grand Cherokee offers the widest range of four-wheel drive systems anywhere in the world. Command-Trac, standard on Grand Cherokee SE and Laredo, is a part-time four-wheel drive system with convenient on-the-fly shifting between two- and four-wheel drive. In four-wheel drive, both front and rear axles are engaged and rotate at the same speed, giving you maximum traction during off-highway maneuvers and over slippery road surfaces.

Selec-Trac is an optional full-time four-wheel drive system. It allows the driver to shift on-the-fly into four-wheel drive full time and remain there indefinitely, over almost any road surface including dry pavement. In the four-wheel drive full-time setting, the open center differential allows the front and rear axles to rotate at different speeds, which lets the driver drive in four-wheel drive without binding and causing premature drivetrain wear or torquing the chassis. A four-wheel drive part-time setting (center differential locked) helps the driver cope with severe conditions like deep mud or snow.

The latest innovation in Jeep four-wheel drive is Quadra-Trac - an all-the-time system that is standard on the Grand Cherokee Limited and optional on the SE and Laredo.

With Quadra-Trac, the driver never has to shift between two- and four-wheel drive because the system operates in four-wheel drive all the time. It is suitable for all conditions from perfect to perfectly awful. With a locking viscous coupling in the center differential, the system automatically senses the need for additional traction and evenly distributes the power to the wheels when needed.

It's called Customer One and it establishes one unbreakable rule: Treat every customer with honesty and respect.

Like all Jeep four-wheel drive systems, Quadra-Trac has a low-range four-wheel drive shift position for severe low-traction or rugged terrain situations that call for greater control at reduced ground speed.

Jeep Grand Cherokee is the first and only domestic sport utility in its class with a standard air bag for the driver. Four-wheel anti-lock brakes are also standard.

The 4.0-liter engine is standard and a 5.2-liter, V-8 engine is optional. The optional four-speed automatic transmission (standard on the Limited) has an overdrive lockout switch for greater passing acceleration.

Whenever a person visits a Jeep and Eagle dealership, they will meet a team of trained professionals who have made customer satisfaction their number one priority. Here's why. Chrysler Corporation and its dealers have made a long-term commitment to outstanding customer service. More than 100,000 dealership management, sales and service people are participating in the most extensive educational initiative in automotive history. It's called Customer One and it establishes one unbreakable rule: Treat every customer with honesty and respect.

Mercedes puts ideas and concepts through rigorous tests

A new Mercedes-Benz design spends years in development, proving itself worthy of its name. Mercedes engineers often begin analyzing new ideas in concept cars. An idea that shows promise is considered for production - but only after passing a battery of tests to prove such ideas meet the rigorous Mercedes-Benz standards of performance, reliability, durability and longevity. As a result of this push for new ideas, Mercedes is the holder of more than 10,000 patents.

Deep-freeze testing at temperatures of 40 degrees below zero helps create vehicles with deep-down reliability. In locations like Death Valley, the engineers subject Mercedes-Benz models to extreme heat, sometimes reaching 120 degrees F.

To prove the durability of a new design, prototypes undergo grueling sessions on 'shake machines' that simulate 200,000 test track miles for every 70 hours of laboratory testing.

Mercedes currently offers four different car classes:

The E-Class

Since its introduction, the E-

Class has been the benchmark by which virtually every other automobile is judged. The seven diverse E-Class models display the virtues long synonymous with Mercedes-Benz automobiles: advanced safety engineering, rigorous standards of quality, durability and reliability, and performance that is at once spirited and efficient.

The SL-Class

The three SL-Class models are the most advanced examples of this unbroken tradition of excellence. Each, in its own way, satisfies the driver's desire for an automobile of consummate driving pleasure.

The C-Class

The new C-Class sedans are not merely luxury cars for the sake of luxury. But for the sake of such aims as safety, reliability and longevity. Never before has a Mercedes-Benz automobile of these proportions felt so spacious, so solid and so serene.

The S-Class

From performance to comfort, to passive and active safety features, to efficiency and environmental concern, the S-Class has been an innovator and a leader. Powerful, agile and reassuringly secure, a S-Class automobile imparts sheer driving pleasure and enduring satisfaction like no other automobile in the world.

To arrange for a test drive, call or visit Smith Motors at 455-461 River St. in Haverhill, or call 372-2552.

Women's lingerie and tires confuse, baffle some

Pro race-car driver Pat Lazzaro says a woman's trip to the tire store can be a lot like a man's trip to the lingerie store.

"In both cases, each may feel out of place in a strange environment and unfamiliar with the sizing technology," Ms. Lazzaro says. "They have a vague idea of what they want and what they think they need, but they may feel uncomfortable discussing their very different purchases with the person behind the counter."

So how can a woman be more comfortable buying tires? Ms. Lazzaro, who also serves as an advisor for Firestone's Women's Education Program, says women need to be prepared to ask and answer questions.

- Ask about total installation cost, not just the price of the tires. When you install tires, you need to include alignment, balancing, stems, taxes and labor. What appears to be a bargain may not be if the seller overcharges for installation-related fees.

- Ask about warranties – and get that information in writing.

- Ask about future alignment, balancing and rotation costs. Some sellers may provide discounts on these services.

- Be prepared to answer these questions:

1. Where do you drive – snow? Rough roads? Highways?

2. How do you drive – short trips in town? Interstate?

'In both cases, each may feel out of place in a strange environment and unfamiliar with the sizing technology. They have a vague idea of what they want and what they think they need, but they may feel uncomfortable discussing their very different purchases with the person behind the counter.'

Pat Lazzaro

3. How long do you want your tires to last?

4. What kind of ride do you want – firm and sporty? Soft and luxurious?

5. How much do you want to pay?

6. What do you carry – just you? The bowling team?

"If possible, start shopping for tires before you need them," Ms. Lazzaro adds. "If you're driving on bald tires and have a flat, you don't have a chance to shop for the best deal and service."

Saturn sets new standard in owner satisfaction

Saturn has proven that high satisfaction is not just the province of import luxury cars.

Luxury-car buyers have long expected to get value for their money, to be treated with respect and to be serviced promptly, courteously and efficiently.

Now, however, those expectations of new car buyers are no longer confined to the high-priced segments of the car business. Americans shopping for new cars costing $10,000 to $15,000 are questioning why they should be treated any differently than somebody considering a $50,000 vehicle. One of the major reasons for this attitude change — perhaps the most significant reason — is Saturn.

When General Motors' grand experiment in a new way of making, marketing and selling automobiles was launched three years ago, there were those in the automotive industry who were skeptical about Saturn's ability to deliver the unparalleled levels of satisfaction that were its major objectives. Thirty-six months later, however, it is clear that U.S. car buyers have responded to the Saturn way with resounding approval.

In consumer study after consumer study, Saturn shoppers and owners give the nameplate some of the highest ratings in the industry. Saturn consistently places in the top tier of the J.D. Power and Associates Customer Satisfaction Index Study, Initial Quality Study and Sales Satisfaction Index Study, achieving satisfaction and product quality levels comparable to several of the most expensive car lines in the country.

Saturn of Haverhill

Saturn's impact on the automotive marketplace may, in fact, be an historic one: it has demonstrated that a volume manufacturer based in the United States and employing American workers can deliver the same satisfaction and service as foreign carmakers who sell far more expensive vehicles.

The new Saturn is available at Saturn of Haverhill, 915 S. Main St., Haverhill.

They come in five colors and two ways to bring them home.

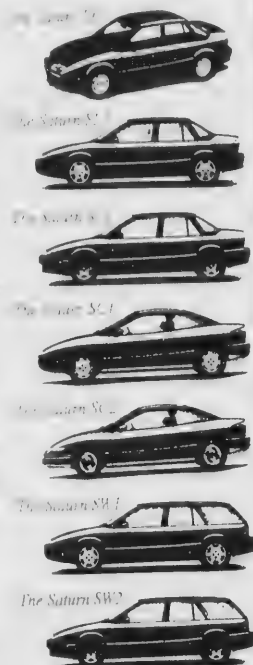

It's not every color of the rainbow. But, then again, who really wants to drive an orange car? Saturns, however, do come in some nice colors that you won't mind being seen in every day. And now you've got two options on how to get yourself into these colors. Buy one or lease one. It's all in legalese and English right over there.

Commonwealth Motors posts tremendous year

1993 proved to be a tremendous year for Charles Daher's Commonwealth Motors. Along with being awarded the Honda Leader of Total Customer Satisfaction Award, Charles Daher has also acquired another dealership in Lynn. The new dealership, Commonwealth on the Lynnway, was acquired in November 1993.

With the addition of the new dealership, Commonwealth Motors should be, in 1994, the largest Chevrolet dealership in the east coast. Along with the Pontiac and Mazda franchises, Commonwealth Motors is now able to offer customers a wide array of makes and models and the ability to offer volume pricing on these models.

Charles Daher's Commonwealth Motors prides itself on customer service. The service and parts departments are open six days a week, Monday through Friday, 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., and Saturday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

All the staff at Commonwealth Motors looks forward to seeing you this coming weekend, which is considered the start of the automobile selling season. If you have any interest at all in an automobile, stop by to see us this weekend and we are sure that the sales staff will entice you with a fabulous price on a new or used vehicle.

Tips on how to not lose your keys

A person can lose time and money by leaving your keys inside a locked car. To help avoid this, Shell Motorist Club (SMC) offers these tips:

- Develop a key removal routine. Make key removal an automatic reflex. Remind yourself to always double-check for the keys each time you leave your car.
- Carry an extra large key ring. This will help make your keys harder to ignore. It's also easier to find when you're in a hurry.
- Learn to only lock your car from the outside with your key.
- Give an extra car key to spouse or friend. Ask your spouse or a friend to bring you the extra car key if you should accidentally lock yours inside the car.
- Hide a spare key in a magnetized holder under your car. Ask your mechanic to help you locate a secure spot in which to hide a spare key in a magnetized holder.
- Join an automobile club. Many offer an emergency lockout service which reimburses members for locksmith charges.
- Have an extra car door key made and carry it in your billfold.

even wiper blades. For three years, virtually all you have to do is put gasoline into your Audi. And that makes Audi an even better value.

But we don't stop at protecting your investment. Audi automobiles come with advanced features that help protect your family, as well. Airbags (supplemental restraint system), ABS brakes and automatic self-tensioning front seatbelts are just a few of them. And all Audi models already meet the U.S. government's stringent 1997 side-impact standard.

Safety is also inherent in our exclusive full-time, all-wheel Quattro drive system. Unlike conventional four-wheel drive systems, Quattro immediately senses any wheel slippage and shifts power to the wheels with the most grip. The result is maximum traction on even the most treacherous road surfaces. So, whatever the weather, you'll travel with confidence.

Consider, too, the range of choices in the Audi line. From the value of the 90S to the stellar performance of the S4 Quattro. Sport sedans, luxury sedans or station wagon. Turbocharged multi-valve 5-cylinder, V6 and even V8 power. Front-wheel drive or Quattro permanent all-wheel drive. Clearly, Audi offers the luxury of choice in performance cars.

At Audi, we build automobiles that set standards. Not to mention records. If you haven't experienced the unique sensation of driving an Audi, now is the time to start.

For more information or to arrange a test drive, call Park Audi, The Andovers' exclusive Audi sales and service dealer, 222 Lawrence St., Lawrence, at 686-9743.

Find a good repair establishment with these tips

As spring and summer arrive, many motorists will be having their vehicles serviced before the hot weather sets in. Here are some tips from the non-profit National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence on finding a good repair establishment:

- Start shopping for a repair facility before you need one.
- Ask friends and associates for recommendations; consult local consumer organizations.
- Look for a neat, well organized facility, with vehicles in the parking lot equal in value to your own and modern equipment in the service bays.

- Look for a courteous staff, with a service writer willing to answer all of your questions.
- Look for policies regarding labor rates, diagnostic fees, guarantees, etc.
- Ask if the repair facility specializes or if it usually handles your type of repair work.
- Look for signs of professionalism in the customer service area such as civic, community, or customer service awards.

The '94 Volvo 850 Sportswagon has power and looks

Expect the unexpected in Volvo's new front-wheel-drive 850-turbo wagon. Dubbed the Sportswagon, it's sleek and nimble.

A 222-horsepower, 20-valve turbo-charged engine integrates enjoyably with crisp power-assisted rack and pinion steering, Volvo's patented Delta-Link semi-independent rear suspension and an electronically controlled four-speed transmission.

Power and performance are enhanced by advanced engineering features such as the Bosch Motronic engine-management system, an on-board diagnostic system that monitors more than 60 engine functions.

The 1994 Volvo 850 Sportswagon is a vehicle that finally offers the family with needs for a wagon the power and looks of a sports car.

The biggest problem customers have had with the 850 Sportswagon is deciding who's going to drive. As expected the resale value has been "sky-high" with the used 1993 rental 850's.

The 850 Sportswagon, along with all makes of new and pre-owned Volvos and Toyotas, are available at Jaffarian Volvo Toyota, 312 River St., Haverhill.

A 222 HP Volvo? Yup. It's Volvo's all new 850 Sportswagon.

Cadillac redesigns DeVille for '94; keeps 1993 pricing

Jim Fichera of Woodworth Chevrolet-Cadillac-Buick Inc. in Andover is very excited about the 1994 Cadillac DeVille.

"It's completely redesigned with the latest in performance and safety technology. These features include an exclusive airbag system to protect three front seat passengers, road-sensing suspension, speed-sensitive steering, anti-lock brakes and more luxury and convenience options than ever before," said Mr. Fichera.

"The DeVille is a great value with more standard features for 1994 at the same price as 1993 models," he said.

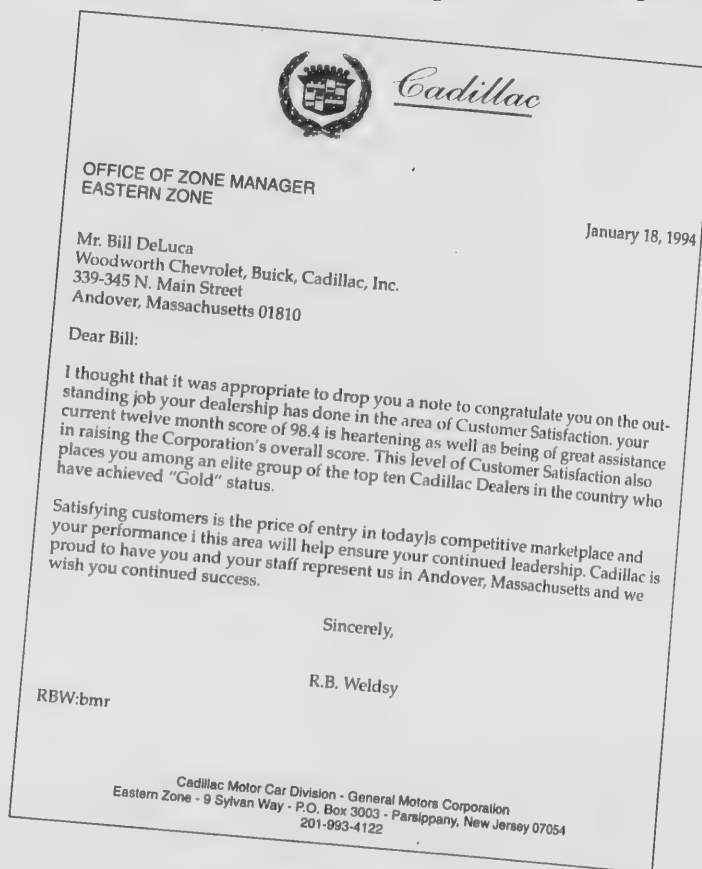

Customer satisfaction is the key to success in the 1990s and beyond, according to Mr. Fichera.

"Woodworth is proud to have achieved a top-10 national ranking out of 2,600 dealers," he said.

"Cadillac surveys all customers that we sold cars to within the last 12 months. Questions on the survey include sales professionalism, product knowledge, attitude, delivery condition and service after delivery. It's a team effort and Woodworth will continue to make each and every customer totally satisfied."

Woodworth Chevrolet-Cadillac-Buick Inc. is located in Shawsheen Square in Andover. They sell Chevrolet and Geo cars and trucks, Cadillacs, Buicks, commercial trucks and used cars.

The '94 Taurus is available at Nassar Ford

Ford Taurus, despite all competitors, was America's best-selling automobile in 1992. This impressive accomplishment was probably inevitable. Taurus is a proven performer, a design leader and an award winner.

And yet, despite all the accolades, Taurus is still improving. That's because Taurus, like all Ford products, is an ongoing success story, an evolution driven by a firm commitment to quality and safety.

As a result of this philosophy, Taurus now offers a driver and right-front passenger-side air bag supplemental restraint system as standard equipment. For 1994 the front disc-brake rotors have been enlarged for smoother, quieter operation.

There's now a cellular telephone option to make it easier to stay in touch.

Taurus is engineered to reduce the risk of injury should there be an accident. But it's also engineered to help avoid an accident in the first place. There's a two-phased defense system working. The occupant safety features are an energy-absorbing steering column, childproof rear door locks and standard air-bag supplemental restraints.

New technology

With Ford Taurus, improvement comes standard. Its overall performance is due in part to state-of-the-art technology such as sequential electronic fuel injection. It releases fuel to each cylinder in time with the engine's spark firing order.

The fuel is precisely metered by the sophisticated EEC-IV computer, which constantly re-tunes the engine to the requirements of the moment. The 4-speed automatic-overdrive transaxle is also electronically controlled for smooth, quick-changing of gears.

The new 1994 Ford Taurus

Taurus steering systems are designed to respond precisely. The GL rack-and-pinion system is power-assisted.

The smooth Taurus ride is the result of its four-wheel independent suspension system. MacPherson struts are double-isolated to help reduce noise and vibration. Nitrogen gas-pressured, they help maintain consistent hydraulic fuel pressure for a smooth and controlled ride.

Taurus interior

Since introduction, instrumentation has been continually refined. The panel itself blends smoothly into the door trim, giving the entire interior a unified appearance. The controls are easy to reach and operate. The stereo system features a handy remote module, placing volume, memory and seek controls near the driver.

The new Taurus is at Nassar Ford, 320 S. Broadway, Route 28, Lawrence. Call 688-6904.

Manzi Dodge lights up the roads with Neon

It's the unexpected things that helped induce the editors of Automobile Magazine to name the all-new 1995 Neon the Automobile of the Year. Things like Neon's stand-out cab-forward design; Neon's generous five-passenger room; and, of course, Neon's best-in-class standard power and sports-car-like handling.

Aglow with personality, Neon really is a refreshing departure from the homogenized masses. And a good deal of the credit for this breakthrough, cab-forward-styled car goes to the driver. Neon has been consumer-driven right from the start.

Neon offers driver and front-passenger air bags as standard equipment. Antilock brakes come standard on Neon Sport - and are available on Highline and Base - for straight-as-an-arrow stopping power.

Neon's impact energy system protects the driver on all fronts. Ultra high-strength steel side-guard front and rear door beams, plus reinforced front and rear door interlocks and body structure components minimize passenger-compartment intrusion in case of a side impact. Neon also offers an integrated child-safety seat.

The new Neon can be seen at Manzi Dodge, 9 Merrimack St., Lawrence. Call 683-9591.

Cain sales staff has a hassle-free, low-pressure approach

By Stephanie Maughan

You may think that all car salesmen are pushy, "slam-dunk" characters that will try to talk you into a sale. You know, the kind with the slicked-back hair, pinky ring, gold watch and Armani suit. Right? Well, maybe at some dealerships.

But the salesmen at Cain Chrysler Plymouth in Wilmington don't quite fit that image. They stress a hassle-free, low-pressure approach to sales, which has contributed to their ranking among the top 10 percent of Chrysler salesmen in the U.S. and Canada, selling to one in every three customers.

Frank Scolaro

Mr. Scolaro came to Cain about three years ago after teaching high school English and working for a trucking company. He got into sales because he enjoys working with people. Mr. Scolaro feels that his background has helped him communicate effectively with his customers. "The stereotype doesn't affect my work," he says, adding, "Honesty dispels myths." Approximately 20 percent of his customers feel they must be pushy or fight when they're buying a car. Mr. Scolaro counters this tendency by being open and by providing as much information as possible. "Customers can tell if you are being upfront with them" Mr. Sco-laro remarks. He goes on to point out that you don't have to try to drive a bargain at Cain because the hassle-free policy provides the best price available.

Roy McMacken

Mr. McMacken, who says he's in sales because he enjoys speaking and dealing with people, came to Cain a year and a half ago after doing mapping and digital imagery for the military and a high-tech firm in the Boston area.

He gets a lot of referral business, perhaps because he focuses on listening to customers' needs and their expectations about what they expect to get for their money, not just talking to them. "People are aware of how they are being treated," Mr. McMacken says. Partly for this reason, he makes it a point to have time to help a customer after a sale.

All of this helps overcome the stereotype, which Mr. McMacken feels is tough to do. He says that at many dealerships he has visited, the sales volume was so important that the salesperson couldn't give personal treatment. "They just wanted to sell," Mr. McMacken remarks. "We're not going to sell you something that you weren't planning to buy."

In general, Mr. McMacken says that customers are much more educated today. "You can't just give them a sales pitch, you must relate to them at their level," he explains, adding that customers are looking for a car that will have a good resale value and that's safe.

Ed Andersson

"My job is to help customers find what they need," says Mr. Andersson, who has worked at Cain for a year after five years' experience at another Chrysler dealership and about seven years as an information analyst at Raytheon. He feels that the information gathering and analytical skills he developed there have helped him succeed at Cain. He switched to sales because he says he needed to be "driven" and wanted more variety in his job.

Like Mr. McMacken, Mr. Andersson says he spends most of this time listening to customers. "You have to be attuned to what the customer wants, not to what we have to sell them," he explains. "Educating the customer is most important. Sometimes how much you listen can make the difference in if the sale goes through."

Mr. Andersson goes on to say that every customer is different. People come in to explore, but not necessarily with the intention of buying a car that day. Many have their defenses up. He says that he tries to help customers enjoy the experience of buying a car. "You make a sale by creating excitement," Mr. Andersson points out, adding, "We're not selling cars, we're helping people buy them."

Chrysler Corporation once again has gained the attention of the car buying public with its recent introduction of the brilliant new Neon - another winner from Chrysler Corporation to follow the LHS, NY and Concorde - Automobile Magazine's car of the year: the 1995 Neon.

Using the technology developed for the LHS, NY and Concorde, the Neon comes standard with dual airbags, the most horsepower for a car in its class, more passenger room and comfort because of the cab forward design, superb handling characteristics, available ABS, 38 mpg highway gas mileage, and as for safety, Chrysler has expended great effort in developing some of the best in the auto industry. The Plymouth Voyager minivan for '94 has already achieved the 1998 NHSTA safety standards, which includes dual airbags as standard equipment.

Business at Cain's has increased more than 200 percent due in part to a resurging economy, and educated and dedicated sales force, as well as a hassle-free one-price policy on all new vehicles.
